

County Airport...Lively Debate

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KINGSTON

The proposed Ulster County airport is "not going to be a paying proposition," according to Edward deGroff, a member of the Airport Advisory Committee.

In a debate on the controversial issue of a county airport and the selection of Hurley Mountain as its site, deGroff and David Fox, a prominent area aviator, who has logged 20,000 hours, has been a flight instructor, airport manager and designer, spoke on the pros and cons of the airport.

DeGroff stated that while the airport will not be a "paying proposition" he and the Airport Advisory Committee feel that it would play an important part in the future of building up the county.

Fox stated that "everything has been done in total secrecy" referring to the plans on the proposed airport. He said that it was alleged that the FAA had selected the site of Hurley Mountain, when in reality it had only "endorsed" the Hurley site, as one out of eight proposed sites, in August of 1968.

According to Fox, businesses who desire to locate near the airport will have to buy their land not from the county but from individual landowners. This could cause a problem if some of these landowners force the county to buy some of their land.

Fox also stated that the Hurley Mountain site is not accessible and that there would have to be major road construction to reach the airport. Morgan Hill Road is the proposed road which would lead to the airport. Fox said that there are "much better sites" than on top of a mountain, which would require massive land redistribution.

Fox said that all figures on the airport "represent 20 per cent of what they say you're going to have." The cost of the instrument landing system and approach lights are not in the estimate, according to Fox.

DeGroff began his speech by telling the people, "You should have the facts." He stated that it was untrue that corporate type aircraft could not function on a 4,000-foot runway. As to the instrument landing system, deGroff said that it had been quoted that this was going to cost too much money, but funds for this would come from the FAA and not the county.

He also said that there are provisions in the federal government to build this airport and he would rather see the federal government spend the taxpayers' money here rather than somewhere else.

DeGroff stated, "I'm not entirely sure we should have a county airport" as all the figures are not in. However, there is a survey being conducted to find out whether there is a need for this airport. This survey is not related to the Airport Advisory Commission.

Christus J. Larios, a consulting engineer on the project, was asked why a mountain site was chosen rather than flat land.

He stated that they were given certain standards by the FAA and Hurley Mountain was picked because the FAA insisted on instrument landing system standards and the airport is designed on this basis.

Fox said that county funds would pay 25 per cent of the cost and the FAA would pay 100 per cent in the third phase if everything is approved. DeGroff disputed this by saying it will only cost the taxpayers in the county $12.50 out of every $100, not 25 per cent. There would be no federal aid in the construction of the terminal building and the parking area.

Fox stated that as far as he is concerned, there has been no "feasibility" study made and he still sees no reason for the need of the Ulster County Airport.

The debate was sponsored by the Kingston Area Conservative Party Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Helen Radakovich. Program chairman for the debate was Billy Knowles.

Cambodians Sack Red Sites

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—An estimated 20,000 Cambodian students and workers sacked the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese embassies in Phnom Penh today, burning their files and flags.

Diplomats in the buildings fled before the attacks, the climax of more than a year of widespread unrest over the use of Cambodia as a sanctuary by guerrilla troops fighting in Vietnam.

The demonstrators demanded that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese remove their troops from Cambodian soil.

Police said a group of North Vietnamese in homes near their embassy threatened the mob with hand grenades when the youthful Cambodians approached. The demonstrators pulled back.

Meanwhile, in Paris, Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, called on French President Georges Pompidou Tuesday and later told newsmen that the United States should cease its involvement in Laos or risk greater Southeast Asian turmoil. Sihanouk is scheduled to leave Paris Thursday for talks in Moscow and Peking.

No injuries were reported in the attacks on the two diplomatic enclaves. Both were severely damaged.

"Go Home, Dirty Viet Cong," read one of the banners carried by the demonstrators. Others said "You Want to Vietnamize Cambodia" and "Viet Cong, Dirty Hypocrites."

The Cambodians hurled the files and furniture from the embassies and used them as fuel for street bonfires. The Communist flags, both with a star in the center, were torn down and burned, replaced on the poles with the Cambodian banner.

Signs were smeared on both buildings saying "The union of the Cambodians will chase the Viet Cong from Cambodia." The demonstrators, carrying signs in English, French, Cambodian and Vietnamese, first hit the Viet Cong Embassy, where they not only invaded the building but also burned the automobiles of employees parked outside.

General upswing in fighting noted in Vietnam with Reds inflicting heavy losses on two South Vietnamese companies and U.S. troops killing at least 112 guerrillas in a series of battles near Cambodian border. Story Page 40.

Hanoi officials had fled the North Vietnamese Embassy, too, by the time the Cambodians arrived but watched the attack from their homes nearby, keeping the demonstrators at bay by flourishing hand grenades when they approached.

The outpouring of sentiment against the Viet Cong followed reports Cambodians in a province along the border with South Vietnam had forced the Viet Cong to shut down one of their base camps there.

Agence Khmer Presse, the official news agency, said the villagers along the border in Svay Rieng Province demonstrated against the Viet Cong presence last weekend. Unconfirmed reports said there was an exchange of fire.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the Nixon administration, apparently anxious to head off charges of credibility gap, has divulged more details about American involvement in war-torn Laos.

The latest announcement came Tuesday when the Pentagon disclosed that American

The County Parking — GOP at Odds

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Bipartisan opposition to the purchase of the "Buick" property adjacent to the County Office Building for parking space is reportedly rearing its head.

Chairman of the County Legislature Peter J. Savago has filed a resolution to be acted upon Thursday night calling for the purchase of three parcels of land for $275,000.

"The public is demanding it," he said, explaining that 750 to 850 persons visit the County Office Building each day.

Republican City Legislator Melvin Mones and City GOP Chairman argues otherwise, saying "the price is inflated. The removal of the property from the tax rolls might have. It wouldn't even show up in mills, he contends, adding that it is a drop in the bucket compared to the millions the city itself has removed through the urban renewal program.

Mones is also one of a number of city legislators who oppose the plan if for no other reason than that it will remove property from the tax rolls.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig also is reportedly "strongly opposed" to the proposal and has expressed an interest in meeting with county officials to discuss the matter and asks that meanwhile action be tabled.

Savago argues that the need far outweighs any impact the removal of the property from the tax rolls might have. "It wouldn't even show up in mills, he contends, adding that it is a drop in the bucket compared to the millions the city itself has removed through the urban renewal program.

Proponents of Savago's proposal favor it for a number of reasons. They say they are "not happy" with the price but that additional parking areas are sorely needed and, "you couldn't ask for a better piece of property in view of its contiguity."

They also contend that previously the Board of Supervisors was shortsighted in not planning more parking space when the building was constructed and that "if we're going to buy more space, let's do it now before prices go up even further."

Disagreeing Mones said, "we're just compounding the mistakes of the past. If the county office building is expanding in the future on the same site, it will remove the new spaces and still more will be needed."

The planners feel otherwise, however. One proposal is to build the new parking lot and then, if warranted, build an addition to the office building above it, starting at the second floor level.

Another possibility has also been advanced whereby a Civil Defense Emergency Operating Center be constructed on the present parking lot in between the "Buick" property and the office building. It would also serve as a foundation for the building addition and would be partially financed with the federal government paying 50 per cent and the state 25 per cent, thereby saving the county the cost of a foundation.

Savago's present proposal calls only for the purchase of the three parcels which include a large home facing Pearl Street, which he explains, could be used for additional county office space. "It's a good, sound building," he suggests.

Mones also took Savago and the Planning Board to task for rushing into this "when the problem has existed for six years."

Hillcrest Charges Dismissed

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The city spent four and a half hours in court Tuesday afternoon in its case against Hillcrest Gardens and proved only that an owner in abstentia can't be convicted of housing violations.

The owner, Howard Bruskin, is headquartered in New Brunswick, N. J., immune from the city's attempts to force him to provide adequate heat for the tenants of the Fairmont Avenue apartment complex.

Some 15 tenants of Hillcrest had filed complaints of lack of heat with the city building inspector beginning last November. Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein brought the case to court yesterday before special City Judge George A. Beck in an attempt to prove that Bruskin or his agents had violated section 235 of the Real Property Law in failing to provide heat in accordance with the lease agreement with the tenants.

Bruskin could not be extradited from New Jersey because the charge against him was a misdemeanor, not a felony. As such, he could not be prosecuted, Judge Beck ruled.

One of Bruskin's agents, James Gardiner, manager of the apartments, did appear as the defendant. Beck ruled that Gardiner, since he was not the owner, was not responsible for the lack of heat.

Bruskin was referred to as "a slum lord" by Klein toward the end of the proceeding. Judge Beck said that they would have been convicted if they had been in court. He termed Gardiner "a dupe of the owners."

Gardiner (and Bruskin) were represented by William Mullaney who said that he would attempt to prove that all reasonable efforts were made to provide heat. "At most (the lack of heat) it was negligence not wilful failure," he said. City Building Inspector

George E. Radcliffe was not available for testimony in the case. He was excused due to the death of his wife in the past 48 hours. Mrs. Ella Clausi, Radcliffe's secretary, was called to the stand with the depart-

Mrs. Clausi said that Radcliffe had made an inspection of the facilities in January and found that the heating pipes were leaking and that there was water in the basements which was short-circuiting the wires to the boilers. Radcliffe reported at the time that the heating system was worn out and should be replaced.

The period in question was from Nov. 1 of last year to this past Feb. 16. Klein called a number of witnesses who testified to the lack of heat during that period of time.

Mrs. Maralynn Myers testified that most days and nights during that period there was no heat and that she had to use her oven to keep warm. She and her husband are the parents of a six-month-old child.

there was "sporadic heat or none at all." She said that it "was pretty difficult to reach anyone" and that "Mr. Gardiner does not answer the phone anymore."

Ronald Lifshin, the father of a six-month-old and a six-year-old child testified that the temperature in his apartment was as low as 40 degrees when the heat was off this winter.

Mrs. Helen Weaver, who said she suffers from arthritis, and Frank Fusillo, said they had to abandon their respective apartments because of lack of heat and went to live with relatives during the times the heat was off.

Gardiner testified that the owners had spent $5,000 last year in repairing the boilers and that another $30,000 would be needed to make them adequate. He said he had tried to use her oven to keep warm, to get the owners to make permanent repairs.

Judge Beck, in conclusion said, "It's a sin that the real culprits were not here."

Greenwich Village Explosion: No Connection to Area Dynamite

By WALTER S. CLARK

WOODSTOCK

Detectives from the New York City Bomb Squad and BCI investigators of the Kingston State Police found no immediate connection between the Greenwich Village townhouse explosion and the seizure of a cache of dynamite in an unoccupied house near Shady.

Two plainclothesmen from New York, who were in the area last weekend to interview hippies and others in the area as they pressed their investigation, returned to their headquarters.

Meanwhile, searchers found the mutilated body of a woman and enough dynamite bombs to blow up half the block in Greenwich Village where the explosions occurred last Friday, killing at least two persons including the unidentified woman and Theodore Gold, 23, a teacher active in New York revolutionary groups and a former leader of the Columbia University student riots.

While in this area, it was learned, New York detectives inquired about 25-year-old Cathlyn Wilker on, daughter of the owner of the townhouse, and another woman thought to be Kathy Boudin, 26, who were pulled from the rubble of the townhouse minutes after the series of explosions. The two women were taken to the home of a neighbor who helped them clean up. She also gave them clothes. The women later disappeared after explaining they were going to a drugstore for medicine.

A New York police official commenting on the explosion caused the explosions by accident. State Police, continued their probe into the seizure of the 150 sticks of dynamite and caps found in the house in Shady.

Ellenville Mayor Gets a Letter

ELLENVILLE

A letter from the Ellenville Urban Renewal Agency to village Mayor Robert Dowling, released Tuesday, confirmed that the firm seeking to construct more than $1.5-million of housing in the village for senior citizens and low income families is willing to allow other builders to enter competitive plans.

Thomas Koulos of the village URA said in the letter that he had talked to Lionel Coste of the firm of Reinsner and Coste, recently given a "preferred sponsor" backing by the board.

According to Koulos, the partner in the construction firm said "if other developers were interested, they should be permitted to submit their plans."

Under the terms of a "preferred sponsor," no competitive firms may enter the construction scene until the first firm has either backed out or has submitted his plans to the process that is given six months from the date of the letter.

Koulos said the information in the letter released this week and Eyres denied that they had been informed of the Coste statement when questioned by a spectator at a recent board meeting.

The village UR official also related in the letter that Coste has not submitted his plans to the Federal Housing Administration for approval and also said the project planned in the village would have to be underwritten by the village through tax abatement—a reduction of the property tax assessment.

Two plans by Reinsner and Coste involve between 40 and 48 housing units for senior citizens on the former American Legion grounds and other nearby property, plus construction of 60 rental units for low and middle income families off Cape Avenue.

The firm is also seeking similar plans in Saugerties, where it recently was rejected by the FHA due to problems with the plans outlined for that community. The firm is discussing projects for Highland and New Paltz.

Youth Program Planned in County

KINGSTON

The development of a Youth Guidance Program for the youth of Ulster County will be undertaken by members of the County Legislature's Youth Guidance Committee, according to committee chairman S. Robert Kelder (D-Dist. 2).

In order to implement its purpose, the committee is asking all the social studies teachers of the county's secondary schools to participate and lend their assistance.

The first meeting between the committee and the teachers was held recently in the County Office Building. Among those members of the Recreation and Youth Committee taking part were Kelder, Peter J. Savago, chairman of the County Legislature and ex-officio member of the committee; Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, (R-Dist. 7), Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1), Melvin Mones (R-City), Brian White (R-Dist. 9), William Davis (D-City), Paul Brazier (D-Dist. 1), Lewis Kirschner (D-Dist. 7), Glenn DeBrosky (R-Dist. 7).

Schools represented include Kingston, Highland, Marlboro, New Paltz, Rondout Valley, Wallkill, Coleman, Ulster Academy, Onteora and Saugerties.

ROCKED BY BLAST — Workman is shown cleaning up after a compressor tank exploded in the Utility Platers Inc., plant at 420 Washington Avenue early Tuesday afternoon. Engine 2 and Truck 2 in charge of Deputy Chief Hugh Greer went to the scene and on arrival found extensive damage to the room where the compressor was housed. Firemen also reported the compressor tank was completely demolished, the compressor was damaged. A section of a brick wall and roof had been blown off and electric wiring and lights were damaged. Firemen found a large section of the tank on Plaza Road about 500 feet from the factory. Three women employees, not identified, were taken to a hospital for examination. The cause of the blast was not determined. (Freeman photo by Haines).

City Sniper Strikes Again; Three Windows Hit by Pellets

A phantom pellet gun wielder was active in this city again on Tuesday, according to complaints to police, who reported a pellet was shot through the window of a residence, two others penetrated a store window in the uptown business district, and another hit a car windshield.

At 11:20 p.m. yesterday, Bernard E. Carle reported that he heard a car pass his home at 139 Third Avenue and later he found a hole in the living room window and a lampshade inside the house. Detectives investigated and reported they found a lead pellet on the floor.

Late yesterday E. Quirindon, go of 11 Arnold Drive, Woodstock, notified police that he was stopped for a red light on Route 587 earlier in the day when someone fired a lead pellet that hit his windshield.

The third complaint came from the Purple Boutique at 42 North Front Street where two pellets had left holes in the front window.

The complaints were the first brought to attention of authorities since the night of Feb. 24 and the early morning of Feb. 25 when plate glass windows of 40 business establishments in scattered sections of the city were peppered with lead pellets.

Earlier, on Feb. 21, Robert D. Fescue of R.D. 1, Sunrise Park, a post office employee, and his 2-year-old daughter, Beverly Ann, narrowly escaped injury when a section of the rear glass of his car was shattered by a blast from a high-powered pellet gun. The incident occurred on Clifton Avenue.

Two boys were later charged with that act of vandalism. Other complaints to police last month involved four residents who told authorities that windows and windshields of their cars had been blasted with pellets in the vicinity of Henry, Van Buren and Prospect Streets.

Police warned today that malicious shootings involving pellet guns could result in serious injury or possible death, and they called upon residents to immediately notify headquarters of any information that might lead to arrest of the vandals.

10 resounding reasons why you should buy a new Chevrolet instead of a new something else:

1 Higher resale value.

No other car in Chevrolet's field gives you as much back on your initial investment. Year after year. You may never want to sell your Chevrolet, but if you do, it'll be rewarding.

2 Deep down value.

When you buy a Chevrolet you get exclusive things like flush-and-dry rocker panels which help combat rust. And inner fenders that keep your outer fenders looking good longer.

3 Smooth, smooth ride.

Chevrolet springs are computer selected. Linked with Full Coil suspension and advanced body mounting system, it makes our big rider a smooth rider.

4 Impressive styling.

Reason enough alone to go with Chevrolet. The impression is that it's an expensive car, if you want to make an impression.

5 Massive interiors.

Result? Room to stretch out or to sit tall. A lot of room for people and their luggage. Chevrolet actually has more front leg room than any other car in its field.

6 Side-guard beams.

A steel side-guard beam is built into every big Chevrolet's door for added protection and peace of mind.

7 A finish that lasts.

In Chevrolet's field a new "something else" won't have Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer finish. Which is unfortunate because Chevrolet's 15 colors sure keep their shine.

8 Exceptional engines.

Chevrolet's standard 350-cubic-inch V8 runs on regular fuel. So does an even larger 400-cubic-inch V8 that you can order. There are also four other fine performing engines available.

9 Tremendous selection.

Of colors. Of accessories. Of engines. Of transmissions. Of fabrics. Of custom features you can add. And of models to pick from. There are nine different big Chevrolets alone.

10 America's favorite.

Something else a new "something else" can't claim: America's most popular car. If actions speak louder than words, doesn't this say something to you? See your Chevrolet dealer.

New Mobile Home Park

Red Hook Planning Board...An Unofficial 'No'

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

A plan to develop 62 acres into a mobile home park for about 168 trailers was unofficially turned down by the Red Hook Planning Board, according to Town Supervisor Warren Simmons at Tuesday's Town Board meeting.

The Rokeby Road site, off Route 9, is owned by Frank Trifaro of Red Hook, who submitted a plan to the Planning Board several months ago for establishment of the large park. The plan included about 2½ miles of road, and a place for coin laundromat and retail stores.

The Planning Board gave preliminary approval at that time, according to Simmons, based upon Board of Health approval and certain small changes to conform with town law.

Attorney James Coon, representing Trifaro before the Planning Board this week, suggested that only the Town Board had authority to approve or disapprove the project. Trifaro had submitted a revised plan to the Board of Health, calling for initial development of only a ten acre plot for about 40 trailers.

After lengthy debate, Planning Board Chairman Sidney Mead gave a verbal recommendation to Coon to drop the whole idea. At Tuesday's Town Board meeting, Simmons relayed this episode to the board and asked for suggestions. Justice Albert Trezza thought the board should wait upon a written recommendation by the Planning Board, and the matter was temporarily tabled.

In commenting on the situation, Simmons said, "We originally felt that this was a good spot for a trailer park; we will continue to rely upon recommendations of the Planning Board in our decisions."

In other business, the Town Board appointed William Baron Town Attorney, replacing Trezza. Baron is associated with Van DeWater and Van De Water law firm in Poughkeepsie, was formerly employed by IBM, and teaches a law course in Red Hook High School's Continuing Education program.

Trezza resigned from the post of Town Attorney to take over the job of Justice of the Peace, replacing Frank B. Martin, the victim of a snowmobile accident.

A public hearing was incorporated into Tuesday's board meeting on a new salary alignment for the town's two justices. Ellmore Fraleigh will now receive a salary of $4,800, and Trezza will receive $2,800. The change was the first under home rule law in the town's history, and will be known at Town Law Number One.

The realignment in salaries totals $30 less than the former total, with Frank Martin receiving $5,000 plus $1,200 in secretarial fees and Fraleigh receiving $1,400. Both Fraleigh and Trezza will now be considered "active" justices.

The Town Board set a date for its official zoning hearing for March 23 at 8 p.m. at Red Hook High School cafeteria. The old zoning books will be used, and changes published previous to that date in the official newspaper.

The town accepted the only bid on a reconditioned 1965 Elgin Pelican road sweeper for $8,800 from the William H. Clark Municipal Equipment Company, with offices in Kingston. A new sweeper of this model was valued at "nearly $20,000," by the company's representative.

The Town Board will decide on a central site to which junk cars may be taken by the town, in cooperation with Dutchess County's plan, which is expected to begin early in April. A contract to tow the cars will also have to be consummated.

'Earth Day' Campaign

New Paltz Students Making Plans

NEW PALTZ

One of the most well conceived nationwide "protests" is taking shape across the country this month in preparation for April 22—"Earth Day," and one of the more active campaigns is being developed here at the State University College. Headed by a group of students and teachers as well as by individuals from the community, coordinating sessions are being held here to bring together local groups in a one-day "protest" of "the ravaged environment."

Even this week, more than a month before the nationwide "day of environmental action," sessions are being held to draw interest and concern to the pollution of the nation's land and waters.

The purpose of "Earth Day," according to a recent statement by the college sponsors, "is to celebrate and reaffirm our loyalty to the environment and start actively to reclaim what we have already wrecked."

In addition to the "Teach-in" planned for the entire community, several projects of research and public information are being conducted before the

Commenting that "saving our precious atmosphere, water and land is a very personal concern and necessity," the sponsors said they are "testing" the rivers and streams in the area, and will publish the results of the tests.

One item being cited by the group as "asserting a strong and polluting presence," is smoking. "Happenings are planned to point out the smokers' imposition on the air space of others," says the group.

Associate Professor Robert Liikala of the New Paltz College Art Department is leading one group of ecology-minded individuals who are planning to establish gardens "for the experience of growing food without chemicals." Called, "FF" or "if," the food growers are asking for the assistance of area gardeners and "old timers who simply grew things before sprays were around."

Open classes, on Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Science Building Room 113, are being held under the direction of the group as a Senior Seminar in Biology, covering water and air pollution, pesticides and resource conservation.

Individuals are asked by the group to attend the next coordinating session at the college on Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Faculty Tower lounge on the 10th floor.

School Construction

Highland Bids Are Opened

By SHANE CROSBY

HIGHLAND

Several bids for general construction of the proposed Highland Elementary School were opened here Tuesday evening by the board of education.

Board Clerk Robert Demarest said no action on the bids would be taken until they are examined by the school's engineers and architects. Demarest said the "wide variety" of plans and options compound the investigation of the bids, but a decision on the winning bid is expected within a week when a special meeting will have to be called.

In the matter of the award will be the guest speaker at the Knights of Columbus work contract for the school, muni-cations of the lowest winning get all the board members to bid of the Rebena Construction Company.

Acceptance of both the Rebena, the subject of a Supreme Court action brought by work bid could mean land a competitive bidder, submit-clearing work could begin in late early spring, according to officials.

Deadline. A decision on whether the bond is acceptable is to be made at another special meeting to be called this week. Demarest said no special start of the project due to the meeting had been called after battles over location and the bond was examined by a Supreme Court suit between competing contractors are expected to result in a marked increase in construction costs, according to a number of officials involved.

vocational center at the former Ruzzo Building on Grand Street. The lease with Canfield Corporation, owner of the Millard Building, was signed late last week. Rental is for a three year period with option to renew for an additional two years.

BOCES officials are being assisted in space planning by experts from the State Department of Education to insure full utilization of the additional facility.

BOCES currently offers a wide range of occupational courses. Included are business, electronics, electricity, home economics, metal industries, building trades, automotive, garment industries, agriculture and health and personal services training. Young people from every district in the county are involved in the career programs.

Another area where BOCES expansion is indicated is in the field of special education. Requests for next year totaled 160 students as compared to this year's 105 students. The board is seeking additional space for three more classes in this field.

100 Thefts a Day

The city of Washington, sometimes called "the crime capital of the world," has 100 thefts a day. Four out of five persons who committed a robbery on the streets last year went unapprehended. Washington is symbolic of the 30 biggest cities in the country. Its problem is their problem, and, in a lesser degree, of most cities of every size.

Edward Bennett Williams, one of the leading trial lawyers in the country, told a television interviewer the other day that crime in the street is the result of a triple breakdown—breakdown at the police level, breakdown in the courts, and breakdown in the penal institutions.

Williams would increase the Washington police from 4,000 to 6,000 because "the greatest deterrent to crime in the street is a visible policeman." With three-fourths of the crime in the street performed by kids under 21, the chances they won't be caught are 5 to 1. As long as the odds are 14 to 1 they won't be caught when they go out and steal property worth $50 or more; and the odds are 9 to 1 they won't be caught when they break into your house, so "they're going to keep committing these crimes," as Williams says.

The criminal who is kept at liberty on the street for at least 18 months to two years after he commits an armed robbery if his lawyer exploits all the rights of his client. And since the indigent prisoner is given free counsel and a free appeal, naturally they all appeal and that keeps the accused at liberty another eight to ten months after he is convicted. And then an equal amount of time is used up to explore Supreme Court avenues. The point is, by the time punishment is meted, if ever it is, its effect on the culprit is wholly lost.

If the accused is finally sent to jail, he comes out a hardened criminal. In 25 years of practice, Williams said he knew of only one person who was really rehabilitated. For these reasons, Williams thinks order in the cities is the number one priority today. Until we restore order, there is going to be no progress in education, in health, in job opportunities. Order in the cities begets them all.

Curbing Street Crime

Persons who have been the victims of street crime have a built-in interest in its defeat. Some who testified before the House Select Committee on Crime had some ideas which are worth listening to, as Rep. Claude Pepper, chairman and his committee members learned.

A television store owner, whose place of business was burglarized 28 times in two years at a cost of $90,000—no insurance because the cost was prohibitive—suggested making parents financially responsible for the misdeeds of their youngsters, to cut down juvenile crime.

A tackle shop owner was closing his store and going to Canada to start a hunting and fishing lodge because kids who run wild had robbed him clean. He agreed with the television shop owner, that if the parents are made to pay for their children's depredations, the thefts would stop. The cost might shift, but we doubt the parents can control the children.

A police sergeant complained the courts are too lenient. He agreed more police on beats would get the confidence of witnesses and help enforcement.

An ex-convict urged the use of people like himself to tell youngsters about drug addiction and crime. They get through to people where doctors and psychiatrists don't, he said.

A union official said jobs are the answer. Jobs pull men back from careers of crime, he declares.

There are perhaps more personal experience answers. These are the ones to listen to. They should help law and order, not by one idea, but by applying as many as fit given situations. The important thing is to keep trying. Street crime can be and must be eliminated.

Fraud Warning

Virginia Knauer, the President's assistant for consumer affairs, warns against fraudulent home repair schemes this spring. She appealed to newspapers to tell their readers these points:

Get estimates from three different contractors.
Demand an itemized cost of repairs, including all charges of financing and insurance.

Consult a lawyer before you sign a contract or any other papers.

Remember: You can lose your home by signing papers you don't understand.

The reason for this alert is that some consumers have complained of being fleeced by home repair offers. Mrs. Knauer wants the consumer to have a chance of getting what he pays for.

Such an alert is wise in larger cities. In the smaller cities throughout the country, most householders know their repairmen and know who is trustworthy, and who does satisfactory work. Often that is your best warranty. Watch out for the fly-by-night and the cheap magazine ads where great things are promised for very little money.

"Hurry—This Could Be Serious!"

David Lawrence Says Public Interest Ignored In Gravedigger Strike

WASHINGTON — Why is it that some of the most flagrant abuses of power by labor unions get scant, if indeed any, attention? Eight weeks went by before a strike was settled Sunday night between a gravediggers' union in New York City and representatives of 44 cemeteries. Meanwhile, 15,000 bodies have been stored in metropolitan cemeteries since the start of the strike early in January.

New bodies, which reach the average cemetery in the area at the rate of 35 to 40 a day, will be buried first, it was announced by a union spokesman, and the 15,000 accumulated caskets will be handled on slow days or whenever workers are free. It is estimated that it will take two or three months "to catch up."

The emotional impact of such arbitrary action was disregarded by the labor union. The sorrow and agony of the families were brushed aside as inconsequential. Even the New York State Legislature waited until several weeks had passed before enacting a law requiring compulsory arbitration. Unfortunately, the families of persons who died could not choose cemeteries in other cities because in many cases relatives had been buried in the City of New York or its vicinity.

This is an instance that shows the extremes to which the power of labor unions can be applied while the public interest is deliberately ignored. No compassion is felt for those who in their grief desire to see a funeral completed. To the labor union it was just another business transaction and a means of obtaining higher wages.

Labor unions once bargained only with individual employers. Now they represent groups of employees in many companies, and they can produce a work stoppage in an entire industry or area.

Much discussion has been heard lately about damage to the public interest by strikes or threats of strikes, particularly on the railroads and airlines, but there are other strikes which are harmful, too. The fact that the government has to step in sooner or later is widely recognized by the public as a necessary action. But the politicians are afraid of the power of the labor unions at the polls, and the voters have never mobilized their strength to deal with this whole subject.

Thus, for example, the AFL-CIO has claimed that it controls the votes of a majority in both houses of Congress on certain issues. Records are kept and a statistical report is made after each session showing how each member voted. Labor leaders point with pride to the number of Senators and representatives who have cast their ballots favorably on pending legislation affecting labor. In the last few years not only labor organizations but other associations have conducted powerful lobbies which have influenced the voting of members of Congress. Originally collective bargaining was regarded as a proper exercise of the right of employees to negotiate for better wages and working conditions. But nowadays demands are being made for increases in wage rates irrespective of whether there has been any comparable rise in productivity on the part of the workers. Management then finds itself compelled to raise prices to meet higher costs — a danger to economic stability.

But the basic trouble is the irresponsible use of labor-union power in collective bargaining and a lack of legislation on the federal and state level to require arbitration as a means of preventing work stoppage after collective bargaining has broken down and no agreement is reached. Strikes can be avoided and many a business can be spared damage when the continuity of labor operations is assured.

Congress can enact legislation dealing primarily with interstate situations, and the states will have to act if most of the local strikes are to be prevented. A large number of unions are, of course, organized on a national basis, and in such cases a federal law would apply.

When a labor union can actually hold up the digging of graves, and bodies have to be stored for nearly two months, it shows that legislators have neglected their duty to spare the people not merely the discomforts of strikes but some of the personal anguish, too.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The United States has had 13 months of Richard Nixon. He has been our employer for 400 days and a caustic note is beginning to creep into the columns of the pundits. This is disillusioning because no man trained so long and so assiduously for the position he now holds. In addition, all Presidents want to go down in history as men of peace and accomplishment. Nixon campaigned on the issues: War; inflation; race relations. And yet, after 13 months, he has not ameliorated any of them.

The withdrawal of U. S. troops is a cruel statistic because fresh units are sailing almost daily for Vietnam. The sloppy, bleeding little war which he promised to foreclose—if elected—the President now promises to execute in 1973, the year after his second term begins.

Nixon promises that the Vietnamese soldiers will replace American combat troops, but this will not occur. They are unfit and unwilling. Unlike the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, they have no political ideology to induce a true motivation for risking one's life. The north has it; the south endures a succession of governments which enriches itself in war, but will die broke if peace should ever afflict the land.

When General's Taylor, Westmoreland and Abrams said that the north cannot win, they spoke the truth, but not all of it. The south cannot win either. Nixon himself, on a trip around the world, spoke out of two sides of his mouth, proclaiming that the United States would never become embroiled in another of these oriental torture chambers, then ordering the Air Force to bomb Communist positions in another country—Laos.

None of this is intended to denounce Mr. Nixon. He is doing his best but, in my opinion, his best isn't good enough. When John F. Kennedy withdrew air support from the Bay of Pigs invasion, he doomed thousands of Cubans to certain death. When Lyndon Johnson decided to escalate the war and spend $30 billions per year to end it, he was pouring gasoline on a fire.

Within my knowledge, no President of the United States ever made a blunder consciously. A President is only as good as his team. This one consciously courts the tortured South by holding hands with Senator Strom Thurmond, and by trying to pack the Supreme Court with a balance of conservative mentalities. Nor is this wrong if this is the type of President we want.

The black and white races are farther apart than they were in May 1954, when the Supreme Court ordered desegregation. There was a time when we had some communication with each other, but we have had more rioting in the past fifteen years than we had between the administrations of Abraham Lincoln and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Inflation is still with us even though the country is in a mild recession. The market baskets become lighter; the cost becomes heavier. No one knows precisely what causes prosperity, and what induces a depression. Therefore, to tinker with the economy is to play with a ticking bomb. It doesn't matter whether you subscribe to the Keynes type of economy, or the Milton Friedman—any artificial manipulation is bound to hurt the economy. Nixon's biggest accomplishment, in a 13-month tenure, has been to cut an outrageous budget. When I knew him personally in 1960-1961, he was cost conscious, and I believe he husbands that caution today.

I'm sure that it was dismaying to him to find that this country now requires $200 billion to run, but it is the same $200 billion he could relate to his work as Vice President in the Eisenhower administration. For the first time in its life, the American dollar is "only money" and not much of that.

Am I disappointed? Yep. Mr. Nixon has a lot of unamalleable steel in his brain and I assumed that, once in office, he would stamp out war, race riots and yank the reins on inflation. I know that those blue jowls can be tough and decisive. If America must live a spartan life for awhile, why not tell us, and let's learn to live with it? . . .

Sen. Murphy Supplements His Income by $20,000 Yearly

WASHINGTON — From the day Senator George Murphy, R-Calif., came to Washington in 1965, he has supplemented his Senate salary by pulling down $20,000 a year from Technicolor, Inc. The Hollywood company has become almost synonymous with Patrick J. Frawley Jr. the right-wing millionaire who took it over in 1961.

The Frawley firm also has been helping to foot the bill for Murphy's plush Washington apartment, which has its own movie projection studio. In addition, Technicolor provides Murphy with credit cards, which permit him to charge other expenses to the company.

The easy-smiling, light-stepping Murphy appeared in 45 motion pictures, including a few Technicolor extravaganzas, before he traded in his box-office appeal for the voting booth.

Pat Frawley, who made his fortune in ball-point pens and then went on to become the Schick Razor king, has been a sugar daddy for right-wing causes. Frequently, he has used corporate funds to promote his political ideas.

He paid the salary, for example, of John Fergus, a right-wing zealot, who was involved in circulating a phony affidavit accusing ex-Senator Tom Kuchel of sex perversion. Frawley was called before the grand jury but testified that he had nothing to do with the ugly smear.

He also put up money for Senator Tom Dodd, D-Conn., and once provided a "scholarship" to finance the studies of Dodd's son, Tom Jr., in Central America. Young Tom stayed as the razor maker's guest at the Casa Frawley, his estate in Managua, Nicaragua.

In 1964, Frawley mailed a propaganda book, intended to boost the presidential candidacy of Barry Goldwater, to thousands of Catholic clergymen. The self-made millionaire declared fervently in a covering letter: "I am convinced that how we Catholics vote on November 3 will decide not only the future of America but also the future of five hundred million Catholics and of the whole free world."

Senator Murphy recently met behind closed doors with Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., and Chief Counsel Ben Fern of the Senate Ethics Committee to explain his financial dealings with Technicolor.

After first denying any discussion of ethics, Murphy finally acknowledged to this column that he had talked over his financial affairs with Stennis and Fern.

The California Senator said he had been retained as a "consultant" by Technicolor. The company paid half the cost of his Washington apartment, he said, because company officials used it when they visited the capital. He never used the company's credit cards, he said, except to pay his expenses when he was on company business.

Asked what consulting he did for Technicolor, Murphy mentioned two company charities. He stressed that there had been no conflict with his Senate duties.

This column then questioned him about Technicolor's annual $3.5 million contract to handle all the filming at Cape Kennedy, Fla. The Senator said that the contract had been signed before he entered the Senate and that he had scrupulously avoided having anything to do with the renewals.

"I attended two moon shots at Cape Kennedy," he said, "and I didn't even visit the Technicolor laboratory."

Democratic Donnybrook

The biggest surprise arising from last week's meeting of the Democratic National Committee was that the party didn't rip itself apart. Many of the national committeemen and women arrived in Washington with the wounds of the 1968 campaign still aching. They were ready for a brawl. Here's the backstage story:

The resignation of Senator Fred Harris, D-Okla., had come without warning. Not even Hubert Humphrey, the titular leader, was given advance notice. With the party burdened by enormous debts from Humphrey's presidential campaign, he thought it essential to replace Harris immediately.

Humphrey and his political agents, particularly William Connell, began calling around the country, seeking suggestions. They gathered 31 names of men who wanted the job themselves or thought others worthy.

The name that received the most favorable response was that of Larry O'Brien, the former chairman. There was less than enthusiasm over him, however, from ex-President Lyndon Johnson, southern governors and labor leaders. Nevertheless, Humphrey went ahead and offered O'Brien the job.

His response was favorable, but he wanted to check first with two important business clients. After also taking his own political soundings, he declined the job. Without O'Brien, the thin fabric of party unity ripped apart. Humphrey returned to the telephones and finally settled upon Matthew Welsh, the handsome former Governor of Indiana.

He was challenged, however, by Joseph Crangle, the bright, young Democratic leader from Buffalo, who found support from a Roosevelt-like coalition of liberals, blacks, labor leaders and southerners.

At this point, New Jersey's ex-Gov. Richard Hughes, according to associates, put through a call to O'Brien and pleaded that the party needed him again. Then Hughes phoned Jacob Arvey, the Illinois political patriarch, who added his persuasive pressure upon O'Brien.

Both Welsh and Crangle stepped aside when they learned that O'Brien had changed his mind. Informed by Humphrey of O'Brien's decision, Welsh said: "I am delighted and relieved."

He had cause to be, for Democratic dissension still bubbles beneath the surface.

Nixon Sour on Chicago President Nixon has now joined the critics of the Chicago police. In the privacy of his White House office, he has complained that the Chicago police didn't properly control the protestors who demonstrated against the visit of French President Pompidou.

The San Francisco and New York police handled the demonstrators far more expertly, the President told aides. He also grumbled that Americans should treat their foreign guests, no matter who they are, with better manners.

Note: The President told aides that Pompidou had been "conciliatory" in their private talks. He defended the French sale of jet fighters to Libya on the grounds that it was better for the French than the Russians to be dealing with the new Libyan leaders. Nixon said that he didn't accept Pompidou's argument but he thinks that an American President must seek "a more forthcoming attitude" with free-world leaders.

Only the Hard Line Will Impress Rulers of Soviet

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — A good many people who should know better have been arguing quite strongly in recent weeks that the Russians will only agree to sign an arms treaty if the United States first sets an example.

The example is usually that we delay the Safeguard anti-ballistic-missile system. Or that we delay MIRV, the system by which several independently-targeted warheads are put into each long-range missile.

The thought is that we must first show our sincerity and good will.

The group which argues in this fashion contains some highly respected scientists and well-known legislators. But they obviously have not read history nor studied Soviet doctrine.

As former Secretary of State Dean Acheson recalls, we had the same debate over whether to go ahead on the hydrogen bomb. The alignment of scientists was much the same as now. The arguments were almost identical.

While we argued, we delayed. Our delay had no effect on the Russians. They didn't discuss whether, to see a good example: they didn't hold up their research.

As a result, the Russians tested a fully developed hydrogen bomb in 1953. We didn't produce our H-bomb until March, 1954.

As Acheson also remembers it, restraint and reason did not persuade Moscow to call off the blockade of West Berlin. What led to peace talks finally was a counterblockade that began to hurt the Soviet Union.

Again, in Korea, as Acheson recalls, and in the Cuban missile crisis, it was not sweet reasonableness, but the eyeball-to-eyeball stance of the United States (and some careful backroom diplomacy based on that firm posture) that led to what Acheson calls Russian co-operation in getting a Korean settlement and to the Russian missile withdrawal from Cuba.

Acheson, one way or another, probably has been in on more confrontations and more peaceful settlements with the Soviet Union at cabinet or White House advisory level than any other man (not excepting Averill Harriman).

He believes that as the United States strengthens itself "it brings about that calculation of forces by the Russians which induces them to make a deal."

"They are," he says, "not moved by argument, nor by exhortation, nor by considerations of morality. They are moved only when their calculations lead them to believe that it is more advantageous to make a deal than not to do so."

This from the man who played a prominent part in the most unique unilateral disarmament offer in history when in the mid-1940s we offered to negotiate with the Russians and all leading states in the United Nations on the international control of nuclear weapons at a time when we had a world monopoly. (The Russians refused.)

Demands Public Apology

84 Harding Avenue
Kingston, N. Y.
March 10, 1970

Editor, The Freeman:

In reference to George Beck's remarks to me as a disgrace to my country and citizenship, I wonder where he acquired enough information on me to pass judgment. As I understand it, I was not in his court as a defendant accused of anything. I am sure this is not the first time in his experience that the aggrieved person has failed to press suit for various reasons. A felon accused of a serious crime is given his opportunity to explain his side, I was not.

Due to the publicity his remarks have created, I demand he make a public apology through the radio and press. The Daily Freeman has seen fit to give Judge Beck's remarks prominent space in their paper, I trust they will allow me the same courtesy.

GEORGE NETTLE

Jury's Conscience

142 Second Ave.
Kingston, N.Y.
March 7, 1970

Editor, The Freeman

This letter concerns an item of news that was printed in your paper on Friday March 6, 1970 and was headlined "No Time to Testify" Charge Dismissed.

According to the record Mr. Nettle refused to go into court and testify about a crime that was committed on his premises. If it was as simple as losing one day's pay to go into court I'm sure that Mr. Nettle or anyone else would gladly give that much toward the preservation of law and order. However, anyone who has had the opportunity to go through this maze of delays and postponements involved in a criminal matter knows that its often five or six or more times a witness has to appear, and when you work for a living, to lose that much pay really hurts.

Then again, maybe its not the thought of how much pay you will lose but maybe what the result of your effort will be. For an example, a local businessman witnessed a crime committed on my minor daughter in this city some time ago. He was more than willing to testify of what he had seen. We went into City Court and the person involved wanted to plead guilty to the charge but I insisted that it be presented to the Grand Jury for a more serious charge. The Grand Jury indicted him on the same charge that he was willing to plead guilty to in City Court. After many postponements and delays, after all the work and testimony of the arresting police officers, after all the many times that this businessman took time off from his

Urges Tax Map Approval

Lake Hill, N. Y.
March 7, 1970

Editor, The Freeman:

It seems clear from the Woodstock Town Board meeting this week that "government of the people" is just an empty, historical phrase. It sounds good, but it doesn't mean much at all.

I'm referring to the fact that the tax map and the re-assessment proposals advocated by a number of people in Woodstock have been "in committee" for FOUR YEARS. That's right—FOUR YEARS. "In committee" for that length of time means a fading away of the issue and slow death of tax equity. Nonetheless the Woodstock Town Board refuses to urge action by the County Legislature on this issue, as if each body belonged to separate countries, neither one having anything to say in the other's affairs. This is certainly a bizarre point of view, considering that both bodies are supposed to represent the same people. But maybe the Woodstock Town Board feels the tax map and re-assessment should be discussed even more—say, for five or six years, or at least till interested people forget all about it.

The Woodstock Town Board also insists that the tax map proposal and the re-assessment proposals are inseparable, but that's not true. The Town Board can authorize the complete and fair assessment of all properties in Woodstock township, and they can do it now. The cost involved is a small part of the annual budget, and will lead to tax justice on the local level. Last year, the town settled out of court when a group from Zena threatened a suit for lower assessments. The Town Board knew then—and knows now—that present assessments are unfair, yet they do nothing. Instead, they disregard the petition of some 300 names recently presented to them, and they ignore the mandate of the voters who elected two new assessors last year on a platform of tax reform. And the assessors were not even consulted by the Board on either of these two issues: the tax map and re-assessment.

Why the tax map? Property can't be assessed if it can't be located. And there are some properties right now that have avoided taxes altogether because of this fact. Why re-assessment? Because for years, people who have recently bought property in the area have been excessively taxed, while others who have held property for years have been paying far less than their rightful share.

I urge the approval of a tax map, and I urge the Woodstock Town Board to press that issue with the County Legislature. I also urge the immediate authorization of re-assessment in Woodstock Township. It's about time the Board became responsive to all of the people on this issue—not just to those who came here first.

Sincerely,
DON LOPRIENO

Muhammed's Address

Kingston, N. Y.
March 4, 1970

Editor, The Freeman:

Congratulations on your thorough coverage of the Muhammed Ali address. Owing to time limitations that evening, not all in the audience who wished to refute statements by Muhammed were able to do so. Hopefully, this letter will reach the eyes of many of those impressed by points made in Muhammed's address. While he has a magnetic personality, charm and humor, in our opinion he is dangerously misguided right now.

Muhammed argued against mixing of the races by stating that animals and birds each kept to their own kind. Even if this were accurate, (and it is not) man does many things not done by animals. As Muhammed himself pointed out, man performs heart transplants, flies around the moon, and constructs buildings a quarter-mile high. Animals could not do these things. Hopefully, man can learn to live in harmony on the planet. If not, unlike the other animals, he has the ability to destroy it. And himself.

However, the fact that giraffes do not mingle with lions is a poor argument for separation of the races. Red squirrels and black squirrels happily share the same nests. Yellow cats and grey cats meet in the moonlight, and mother cat loves her spotted kittens. Red and brown chimpanzees, white and brown llamas, red and speckled hens, and silver and brown wolves mingle in peace, produce young, and protect their species.

Muhammed believed that the world's greatest problem is black and white conflict. We differ. To us, the shade of an infant's skin is less important than its mental and physical normality. We want all children to be free of genetic damage, and to have enough clean food, water, and air. Protecting the world from nuclear calamity and destruction of resources is humanity's greatest problem. Black and white will breathe the same air and drink the same water, separate or together. We would all do better to work for peace and sanity in the world—together—than to quibble over the placement of a scoop of chocolate ice-cream in a double-dip.

Muhammed argued that politics could not solve the black-and-white crisis because of the assassinations of those who helped blacks. These are violent times. The litany of the assassinated is long and tragic. No less tragic is the tiny dead infant at Mai Li. Nobody knows his name. Violence hurts us all—the gangster, the priest, the actress, the racist. All men are equal before a bullet. The solution is to end the violence in our hearts, and find peace with our fellow men.

Muhammed pointed out that black and white cultures—their foods, dances, and talk—differ. This is true, but no valid reason for separation of the races. A mingling of cultures dilutes neither. Many blacks enjoy spaghetti and bagels while listening to Brahms on their Japanese record player. And many Italians have a taste for chitlins, James Brown, and dashikis. The "American culture" is that of all her people.

We believe the solution to the problem of black and white in America is for each of us to try to bring peace and harmony to the part of the world that is our life. If everyone does this, racism, war, and mankind's other evils will be eliminated.

We commend the Community College students for bringing Muhammed Ali to Kingston. We commend Muhammed Ali on his well-organized, humorous speech. We hope it provoked as much thought in everyone as it did in us, and those we know. And we hope Muhammed will re-evaluate some of his philosophies as he matures.

Peace.

GOP Gained in South Since 1966 Congressional Elections

PRINCETON, N.J. — The Republicans today are running ahead of their performance in the 1966 Congressional elections in the South, the region that holds the key to the outcome of this fall's elections.

Based on a combination of two January-February Gallup surveys, the division of the vote for Congressional candidates in the South is 39 per cent Republican, 61 per cent Democratic. The comparable figures in the South in the 1966 election were 35 per cent Republican, 65 per cent Democratic.

The Republicans today are also far stronger in the South than they were early in the last Congress' year of 1966, when the division of the vote in Gallup surveys was 29 per cent Republican and 71 per cent Democratic.

Only twice in the last 40 years — in 1946 and in 1952 — have the Republicans been able to win enough seats in the Northern states to offset the traditional Democratic seat majorities amassed in the South.

To win control of the House, 1966 Election 28 91 63
1962 Election 18 101 83
1958 Election 14 105 91
1954 Election 9 111 102

extremely difficult feat when it is remembered that many seats in the large cities of the North are as safely Democratic as seats in the South have been.

Based upon a comparison of relative party strength early in each of the last four Congressional election years and this year, the GOP has made important inroads in the South in the terms of voting strength. This is shown below:

Strength in South		Rep.	Dem.
Jan.-Feb. '70	39%	61%
Jan. '66	29	71
Feb. '62	23	77
Feb. '58	23	77
Feb. '54	22	78

Percentage cannot be translated directly into seats; they do, however, reveal basic party strength and generally show a close relationship to seat gains or losses. The table below shows the number of seats won in the South by the two major parties in the last four off-year Congressional elections:

Seats Won in South		Rep.	Dem.
1966 Election	28	91	63
1962 Election	18	101	83
1958 Election	14	105	91
1954 Election	9	111	102

The survey question, put to a total of 3,031 adults in the January-February surveys, was:

If the election for Congress was being held today, which party would you like to see win in this Congressional district — the Democratic party or the Republican party?

The results are based on those who said they voted in the 1968 presidential election.

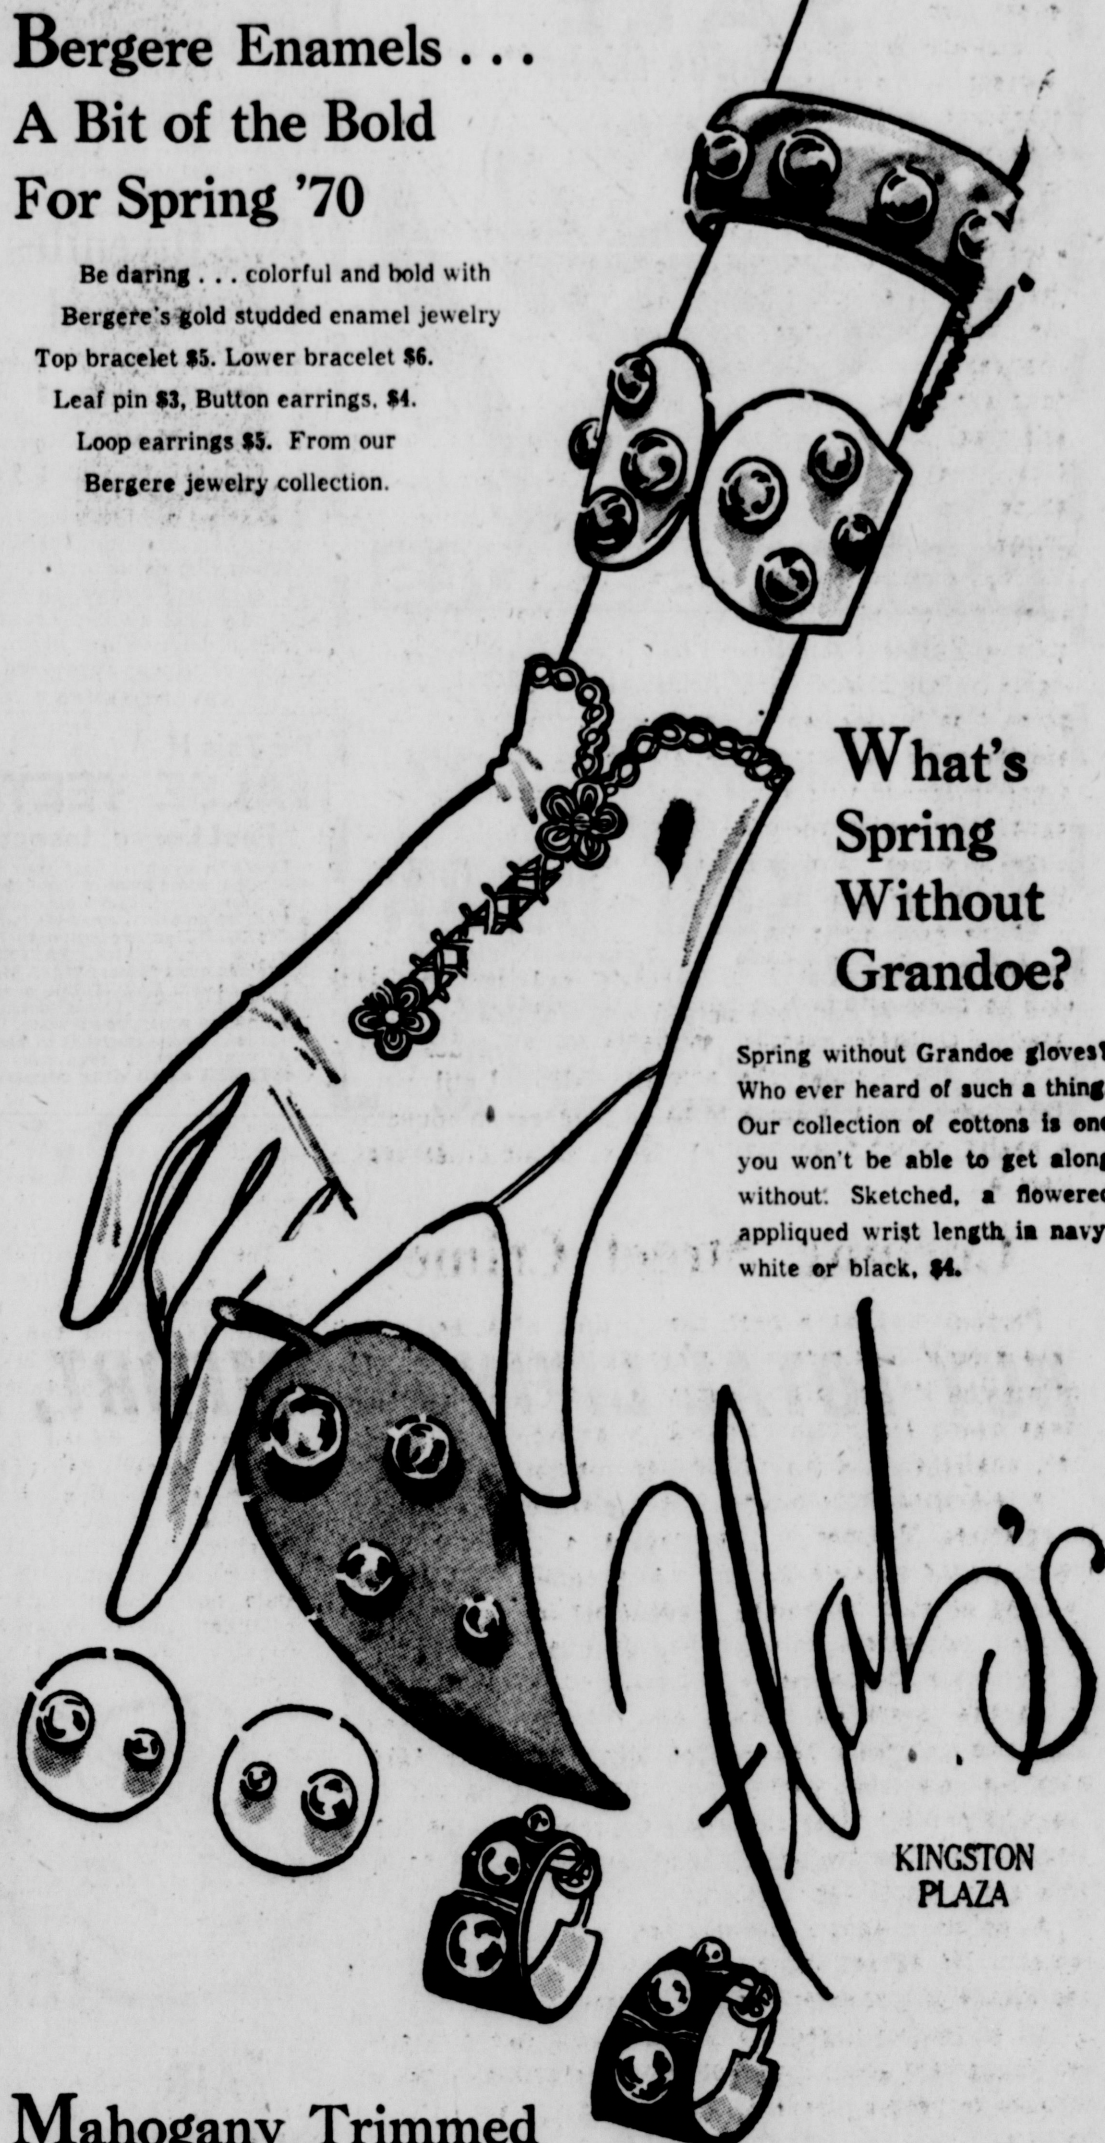

Off-Year Losses

The 1946 election is the only one in an off-year election since 1930 that the Republicans won control of the House. Even in the year the Democrats won more than 70 per cent of the vote for candidates for the House in the South, the Republican victory that year was due to the 56.9 per cent the GOP rolled up outside the South.

Although it is customary for political strategists to speak of "normal" off-year losses for the party in power, this is not necessarily the case. In fact, in the off-year election of 1934, the Democrats gained seats. In 1938, the Republicans gained 80 seats; in 1962 with a Democrat in the White House, the GOP picked up only two seats.

Mrs. Cordts, 103, Dies; Well-Known Civic Leader

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Matilda L. Cordts, 103, of 132 Lindsley Avenue, a well-known civic, charitable, and community leader in Kingston for many years, died at the Benedictine Hospital on Tuesday. She was a native and life-long resident of Kingston and daughter of the late Michael and Elizabeth Claire Cordts. Her husband, the late State Senator John N. Cordts Sr., died in July 1913.

Con-Ed Plant Reopens After The Fish Kill

BUCHANAN, N.Y. (AP) — Consolidated Edison on Tuesday reopened its nuclear power plant at Indian Point, closed since Saturday because of thousands of dead fish found outside protective screens in the Hudson River.

A power company spokesman said the cause of the fish kill is "a mystery to us," and that the company has gotten in touch with the State Conservation Department in Albany for assistance in solving the difficulty.

New Pay Offer Could End the Tugboat Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiators for striking tugboat crewmen agreed today to submit a new wage offer to the 6,000 union members for a vote that could end their 38-day strike.

Representatives of management in the tugboat industry made the new offer shortly after 6 a.m., ending a 20-hour bargaining session headed by federal mediator Robert E. Kennedy.

Details of the offer were not to be released until after the vote, scheduled for noon Sunday. Negotiators for Local 333 of the National Maritime Union made no recommendation to their membership.

County Parking

when making the proposal, had said that he first envisioned and suggested the proposed new parking facility in 1964 and presented a resolution at that time for study of the matter before the county moved into its new building. "It fell by the wayside in committee."

Republican legislators, caucusing Tuesday night, discussed and argued the proposal at length without reaching unanimity. It is thought that perhaps the resolution will meet with defeat Thursday although most of the legislators in the southern tier as well as some in district close to the county seat support it.

According to Herbert Hekler, director of planning for Ulster County, there are presently 39 spaces on the building property itself and 28 more in the Main Street parking area across the street. The acquisition of the Buick property, owned by Kingston Buick and Elizabeth Gross, would add 95 additional "well designed spaces."

Under the proposed design there would be four exits from the lot, one each with egress to Fair, Main and Pearl Streets and to Clinton Avenue. The new parking area would be directly connected to the present one and would provide perpendicular parking spaces 20 feet long with suitable aisle width. "They would not be the squeezed-in type," according to Hekler, who explained that there would be little bunching up of traffic as now exists in connection with cars entering and exiting from the lots.

BUY TOTAL LIVING COMFORT, NATURAL GAS CLIMATE CONTROL

GAS HEATING

Today's better heating systems and controls are designed to work together to supply heat at an even, continuous flow. This precisely measured heat is delivered to all parts of the home to keep the family snug and comfortable regardless of outside temperatures.

AIR CLEANING

An electronic air cleaner installed in your system will trap up to 95% of the tiniest air-borne particles. Pollen, tobacco smoke and other irritants are thereby eliminated. The air in your home will be fresher and cleaning chores reduced. It's also a boon to allergy sufferers.

HUMIDITY CONTROL

As cold winter air enters the home and is warmed, it becomes very dry. The result: you may suffer from itchy skin, or dry irritated nasal and throat passages. An automatic humidifier installed in your heating system keeps the air in your home at the proper humidity all winter long.

CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING

The pleasures of your home take on added meaning when the whole house is air conditioned. Heat, humidity, dust, noise and insects are kept outside. And, on summer's hottest, muggiest days — you'll enjoy the cool comforts of your own home.

DON'T JUST GIVE YOUR FAMILY HEAT... GIVE THEM TOTAL LIVING COMFORT

Let them enjoy good health, cleanliness and complete comfort with Natural Gas Home climate control. Don't just repair an old boiler — modernize the system with the add-on-future.

Jaycees Release Snow Sculpture Contest Winners

SAUGERTIES Winners of the recent snow sculpture contest sponsored by Saugerties Jaycees were announced this week by Robert Saturn, chairman.

The Home Division part of the contest was won by the George Pardonner family with a sculpture of Snoopy on his doghouse. Mark and Karen Wachtel carried away second prize while Richard Mederios and Donald Aldrich took third place honors.

A total of eight people participated in the Home Division. At Cantine Field 30 participants competed in the contest. In the 10 and under group first prize was won by Ronnie and Randy Post; second by Cheryl Jasnowski and Meg Ohno, and third by Clifford Harris.

In the 11-15 group first prize was won by Pam and Tom Fitzpatrick, second by Brenda Whitaker, Sue Dunn, and Joe Swartz, and third by Joe and Barry Mower.

The winner in the 16-19 group was Sue Metzlar. In the family group the top prize was won by Art Craft and Stanley Craft and second went to John and Roger Murray.

Judges for the contest were T. Carlisle, an art teacher at Saugerties High School, Michael Schovel, Saugerties town supervisor, and F. Antalek, president of the State Jaycees.

Burger Home

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, 51, left Bethesda Naval Hospital Tuesday after spending several days there for treatment of the flu.

Miss McGeeney will display the talent which won her the 1970 title and will enable her to compete in the Miss New York State Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America Pageant.

Also on the program will be Jack Keeley, well-known local vocalist and newspaper columnist and Mike Staudacher, star performer in last year's show, who will do one of his specialty acts.

Master of ceremonies and general chairman of the project is Thomas Beckett, society president.

The program is held each year for the benefit of St. Mary's School. Tickets may be purchased at the door on the night of the performance. Senior Citizens are invited to attend free of charge as guests of the Holy Name Society.

Flag Salute in Schools Accorded K of C Support

SAUGERTIES State Sen. Jay P. Rolison in Saugerties Council 4536, Albany and Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., and U.S. Senators Jacob K. Javits and Charles E. Goodell. Copies will also be sent to state officers of the Knights of Columbus, the State Department of Education and New York City Councilman Matthew Troy.

The resolution notes that the supreme constitution and laws of the K of C provides for the display of the Flag in the country in which the council is located and the pledge of allegiance to the Flag in all councils in the U.S. during the regular order of business.

It also notes that the pledge of allegiance was first used in public schools on the observance of Columbus Day, Oct. 12, 1892.

The resolution of the local council was jointly sponsored with the Saugerties General Assembly 4536, Fourth Degree of the K of C.

A political test was given by the Saugerties League of Women Voters. A Saugerties Jaycee, Egon Lippert attended the meeting to discuss plans for July 3.

Nine attended an orientation conducted by Mrs. Steve Chase and Mrs. Richard Ruby. Any Jaycee wife interested in attending next month's meeting may contact Mrs. Richard Ruby, membership chairman.

Rebekah Lodge Hears Report On Ithaca Home

WEST SAUGERTIES A report of activities at the IOOF Home in Ithaca was presented at a meeting of the Queen of the Catskill Mountains Rebekah Lodge 36 recently at West Saugerties IOOF Hall.

Noble Grand Ethel A. Jehle, presided. Members were notified by the Chairlady of the Christmas Party, for the Ithaca Home, Viva Davies, that the party was a great success; that gifts for the residents were numerous and monies left over will go for home benefits.

Plans are already being made for the Grand Lodge Pilgrimage for June 13 at Ithaca. Starting May 17 to 21, the Rebekah Assembly Session will be held at the Statler Hilton Hotel, New York City. Delegates will be elected in March.

On March 23 Lodges are asked to observe the anniversary of the birth of Schuyler Colfax, founder of the Rebekah Degree.

Ask Non-Public School Pupils To File Data

SAUGERTIES Parents residing in the Saugerties Central School District desiring transportation for a child to attend a non-public school outside the district during the 1970-71 school year must file a written request with the Board of Education on or before April 1.

Requests should contain the pupil's name, address, grade, and school presently attending, and the school to be attended during 1970-71.

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools, explained that this procedure is in accordance with Section 3635 of the State Education Law and is necessary to budget sufficient funds to cover the additional costs involved.

Requests should be addressed to the Director of Transportation, Administration Building, Saugerties Central Schools, Saugerties. Applications forms are available at the office of the Director of Transportation, Administration Building, Hill Street, Saugerties, but a letter containing the necessary information will be accepted.

Named to Chorus

Grant D. Morse Elementary School vocal music department is pleased to announce the appointment of 10 sixth grade students to the Ulster County Elementary School Chorus.

Students who will participate in the soprano section of the chorus are Richard Conway, Mary Geick, Nancy Houser, Louis Preston, and Michael Smith.

Joanne Boulton, Trudy Curtis, Elizabeth Reimiller, Barry Rice, and Lori Vaeth will be part of the alto section. These children will perform in conjunction with the All County Choral and Orchestra Festival to be held Saturday, April 18 at Saugerties High School.

Woodstock News

Area Teen Challenge Unit Will Be Feted

WOODSTOCK Families attending will bring two casseroles that night instead of one, together with milk for the children and place settings for their families. This is an opportunity to show gratitude to the group which has been manning the Coffee House on Saturday evenings at the church since last July and to express the share in the joy of the congregation in the fellowship and the hard work of these young people in their concern for the youth of the village and visiting youth at the Coffee House.

Parliamentary Class Conducted For Jaynees

WOODSTOCK Instruction on parliamentary procedures was presented at a recent special meeting of Woodstock Jaynees. John T. Pratt of West Hurley, pastor president of Woodstock Jaycees conducted the instruction class. Pratt is a past District II president and last year served as State Jaycees extensions chairman for this area. Last May he was given the title of JCI senator. A question and answer period followed the instruction. The next regular meeting of the Jaycees will be held April 9 at a place to be announced.

Displays Slated For School Fair At Boiceville

BOICEVILLE The students of Bennett Elementary School are busy preparing for the annual school fair to be held in conjunction with the March 19 Parent Teachers Association meeting in the Bennett School, Boiceville. This year's projects will be entered by students in grades K through 6. The displays will involve work in the following curriculum areas: Math, English, Social Studies, and Science.

Auction Slated
Woolsey Serven of Woodstock will be the chief auctioneer for the Old Fashioned Auction to be held at Overlook United Methodist Church, Bearsville Road, Woodstock on Friday, March 13 at 7:30 p.m. There will be a wide assortment of household items, bric-a-brac and antiques. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Senior Citizens

Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet Thursday, March 19 at 1:30 p.m. in the Reformed Church Fellowship Hall. A report from the Senior Citizens Advisory Council will be heard. Refreshments will be served. page 10

Senior Class Tours IBM

SAUGERTIES Thirty Saugerties High School seniors visited IBM Kingston recently for National Engineers Week. They were greeted by Dennis Beaver and directed to conference room for a movie and discussion about programming and computing. Three groups were then formed and the following displays were observed: The demonstration of the 360 Model 65 computer; a laser beam experiment involving the welding of aluminum and copper strips, and the STMIS display unit. Attending the tour were advisors Thomas Zulick and Roy Ohno and the following students: Holley Carnright.

Rebekahs Plan Dinner to Fete IOOF Members

SAUGERTIES Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge 34 will entertain members of William H. Raymond Lodge, IOOF, according to plans announced at a meeting of the Rebekahs last week in Odd Fellows Temple. Noble Grand Alice Legg presided. District Deputy President of Ulster District Dora Mitelstaedt and part of her staff were present, also Myron Vandemark. Noble Grand of Sunshine Lodge, Highland. At the next meeting on March 17 the Past Noble Grand of the lodge will be honored, and the anniversary of the birth of Schuyler Colfax, founder of the Rebekah Degree will be observed. Mary Landcastle was elected as the regular delegate and Anna Minkler as the proxy delegate to the Rebekah Assembly to be held in New York City at the Statler-Hilton Hotel May 17-21. Deputy Mitelstaedt spoke about the Christmas Party held at the Grand Lodge Home, Myron Vandemark also spoke briefly. On Saturday evening, April 25, the Rebekahs will entertain the members of William H. Raymond Lodge No. 59 and their wives or friends at a dinner and social evening at 6:30 p.m. in Odd Fellows Temple. At this get-together the 151st anniversary of the Founding of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows on the North American Continent will be observed.

Local Rebekahs To Honor Past Noble Grands

Arrangement for the March 17 meeting to honor past noble grands were outlined at the recent meeting of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge held at Odd Fellows Temple, Saugerties. Noble Grand Alice Legg presided at the meeting. The Noble Grand read a very appropriate poem. At the meeting on March 17, secret pals will be revealed and the birthday of Schuyler Colfax, founder of the Rebekah Degree, will be observed. Committees for the next two weeks are as follows: Visiting: Blanch Dunn, Jane Bridgeman, Vice Grand and Noble grand, Refreshment: Florence Tompkins and Theresa Sawyer. Homemakers Notes

SAUGERTIES Sawyer Homemakers held its 12th anniversary covered dish supper in the home of Mrs. Charles Scala. Plans for the March 19 meeting, a film and lecture on the menopause, "A Changing View on the Change of Life," were discussed 5 p.m. in Dutch Arms Chapel. The public is invited. Mrs. John Vozdik announced she will teach a class on creative stitching. A special scale was held with Mrs. John Walton as auctioneer. Hostesses were Mrs. Werner Reissler and Mrs. Thomas Mayone. Coin Activities

The Mid-Hudson Numismatic Club will meet March 19 at 8 p.m. at the Community Room of the Saugerties Savings Bank. The Hudson Valley Coin Shows will be holding a show Sunday, March 22, at the Amblerite Restaurant, Route 28, Kingston, from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Indians Corps Will Interview

In their continuous effort to attain greater proficiency on the competition field, the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps has decided to cast over 30 years of tradition aside, and become co-ed as of March 8. The Indians are particularly seeking French horn and trombone players, but will welcome any experienced horn players or percussionists. Girls lacking a musical background presently, but still desirous of becoming a charter female member, may find an opening in the color guard.

Applicants for membership will be interviewed at the Bethany Hall of the Old Dutch Church tonight between 7 and 9 p.m. The deadline for joining for the 1970 season will be on Sunday, March 15, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium between 1:30 and 4 p.m. Both girls and boys will be considered for acceptance, and must be accompanied by at least one of their parents or legal guardian.

First girls to become members of the Indians are Misses Kathy Lane, Shokan; Mary Ann Lee, Mt. Marion; Marilyn Bash and Debbie Constable, Port Ewen; and from Kingston, Jo Ann Strubel, Dawn Bauer, Debbie Ellsworth, Kristy Bell, Rose Krakowski, Jessica Maloney, Judy Kellerman, Patricia Bigler, Debra Brown and Bernice McClinton.

Ulster Dem Caucus

The Town of Ulster Democrats will caucus Friday, March 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Kingston Savings Bank, Bonanza Branch meeting room, to elect delegates to the Ulster County Democratic Convention.
Any enrolled Democrat can be a delegate. All Town of Ulster Democrats are urged to attend, according to Walter Houle, chairman.

Pentagon 'Hush-Hush' on That New Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the Pentagon's new pieces of armament that some senators want to shelve is MIRV, a weapon that was so hush-hush two years ago that Defense officials prohibited the very mention of it.

For people who will still wonder what MIRV is all about, here is a primer:

Q. What is MIRV?
A. MIRV is a hydrogen bomb. Literally, it is an acronym which stands for Multiple Independently Targeted Re-Entry Vehicle. As a warhead on a missile, it packs an explosive punch equivalent to the blast of many hundreds of thousands of tons of dynamite.

Q. What does MIRV do?
A. MIRV rides, in groups of three to a dozen, in the upper stages of missiles aboard what is called a space bus. One MIRV flies to one enemy target; another can soar towards a different target hundreds of miles away.
Q. How does it work?
A. After the main booster engine of a U.S. missile cuts off, the space bus proceeds outside the atmosphere toward enemy territory. Heading in one direction, the bus drops off or launches one of its lethal passengers toward the first target, the location of which is stored in a computerized brain on the space bus.

The bus then makes minute adjustments in speed and direction with its retro rockets, ejecting a warhead after each adjustment. Each warhead can be ordered to a different enemy base or city, or all can be delivered against the same site.
Q. Does the United States need MIRV?
A. Defense officials say MIRV is needed to counter the Soviet Union's fledgling deployment of an antiballistic missile defense and its increasing number of offensive ICBM sites.

Q. What is the big debate about MIRV?
A. Some members of Congress fear MIRV will escalate the arms race and carry the United States across the threshold of a new era of hard-control nuclear weaponry. Because photo satellites cannot tell whether a missile carries one warhead or many, a strategic arms limitation agreement would almost certainly require on-site inspection—something the Soviet Union has long opposed. The Soviets already are testing some sort of multiple warhead system. Neither major nuclear power has actually deployed MIRV components.

Q. Does this mean that all U.S. missiles have only one warhead?
A. No. Some missiles aboard Polaris submarines are equipped with a multiple warhead upper stage referred to as MIRV, a sort of junior MIRV. Multiple Re-entry Vehicle—throws about three warheads toward an enemy target in a scattered fashion.
Q. How many missiles will carry MIRVs?
A. The United States plans to convert two-thirds of the Navy sup-

Rip Van Winkle Council Scouts Plan Expedition to New Mexico

KINGSTON made it . . . ancient Indians Philmont is rich in natural the west. When he proves equal There are still two openings David W. Bright, leader of the Philmont '70 Expedition from the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, has announced that a contingent of 20 Scouts and Explorers and two adults is scheduled to leave on August 12 to scout the high country of Northwest New Mexico.

The 16-day trip will include tours in Chaco, Denver, and Estes Peak in addition to the rugged adventure of the Philmont Trails. Travel plans are being arranged by Herbert K. Greenwald.

Philmont is a 137,000-acre tract of ranch and wilderness on the slopes of the Sangre de Cristo range of the great Rocky Mountain chain. Elevations range from 6,500 to 12,441 feet above sea level.

Philmont is rich in history and the mark of the men who made it . . . the writings they chiseled imperishably into the rocks: Cortez and the hard riding conquistadors; the early American trappers and pioneers, carrying the frontier on their backs; the rugged breed of mountain men like Kit Carson and Lucien Maxwell laying the trails across this land's valley and prairies and peaks, building their great ranches athwart the storied Santa Fe Trail, monuments to Philmont's fabulous past.

Philmont is rich in game—deer, elk, coyote, antelope, mountain lion, buffalo, wild turkey, bear . . . its hills and canyons teem with bird life, its flashing streams abound with game fish . . . its cool mountains harbor a wilderness of botany—trees, flowers and grasses—and are themselves a storehouse of living geology and the timeless record of the beauty . . . the soaring Tooth of Time . . . sunrise from lofty Baldy Mountain . . . the blue of the water at Cimarroncito, and the eye-stretching sweep of the plain from Urraca Mesa . . . the sunlight filtering through the aspens along the rippling Rayado. There is beauty here.

Philmont is camping at its best. Its no vacation . . . but a true test of camping skills for 12 full days on the trail. Once out of base camp, Scouts and Explorers do their own cooking, carry all equipment on their own backs and operate as individual expeditions in the vast wilderness of the rugged land. Philmont's beauty is worth all this and much more. It's an experience in which a boy can measure himself against the hardship that challenged the early explorers of

There are still two openings left for good, qualified Scouts. Leaders Bright and Donald Bruyn will conduct shakedown hikes starting in April to prepare the expedition for the rigorous Rock Mountain trails. Further information can be obtained by contacting the Boy Scout Service Center, 10 Prince Street, Kingston, or Bright at Saugerties.

Scouting Spectacular Set March 21 at State Armory

KINGSTON District of the local Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The 1970 Scouting Spectacular will be held again this year in the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue in Kingston. The date for the event will be March 21. This is a yearly activity for the Ontario Trails a particular skill of the unit. This year's theme for the Cub Scouts is "Space and the World Around Us." Boy Scouts and Explorers may choose a theme from any category. The units are encouraged to have some type of action taking place within each booth. During the judging this is one of the main areas that is looked upon. Booths are also judged on identification, attractiveness, and boys being in uniform as well as several other items. The work should primarily be done by Scouts where practical. The booths will be open throughout the day beginning at noon.

Also taking place throughout the day will be various competitive events. There will be a Cub Scout event and a Boy Scout event during each hourly segment. Cub events will include a mini-tug-o-war with a 600 pound total weight limit, a wheel barrow relay, a sack race relay, and the Paul Revere relay. Boy Scouts will be competing in traditional events such as fire by flint and steel and fire by friction. Other events will include a bow saw competition and knot tying.

Most area Scouting units will be selling tickets for the event. A share of each ticket sold by them will be returned to the unit. Most of the remainder of the proceeds will go toward improving Camp Trimount which is the Council Scouting camp in Greene County. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

Temple Emanuel Lists Sabbath Service Speaker

KINGSTON Dr. Morris Kertzer, spiritual leader of Riverdale Temple, New York City, will speak at Friday night services at Temple Emanuel on April 10. This special Sabbath service will be a part of the Temple Emanuel 10th anniversary weekend celebration.

DR. MORRIS KERTZER

Another highlight of the celebration will be a testimonial dinner in honor of Alfred Ronder, noted community leader and a past president of the Temple.

Dr. Kertzer's topic will be The Role of Religion Today. He is the author of the book What Is A Jew, now in its 12th printing. His articles have appeared in many national magazines including Look, Readers' Digest, Christian Century, America and the New York Times.

The rabbi has served as a university professor, army chaplain and national director of interreligious affairs for the American Jewish Committee. In 1956 Dr. Kertzer led a delegation of rabbis to the Soviet Union, the first of its kind. He received the George Washington Medal of 1957 for his analysis of Soviet anti-semitism.

Dr. Kertzer has received the Bronze Star medal. He was the journeys to the Holy Land. His most recent book, Today's American Jew, was published by McGraw-Hill and has already received wide acclaim.

Services at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, will begin at 7:30 p.m. All members of the community may share in the Temple's celebration to honor Ronder on Saturday night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. Tickets for the dinner are available by calling the Temple.

Another event in the celebration weekend will be a folk dance teaching session at the Temple on Sunday in which anyone may participate.

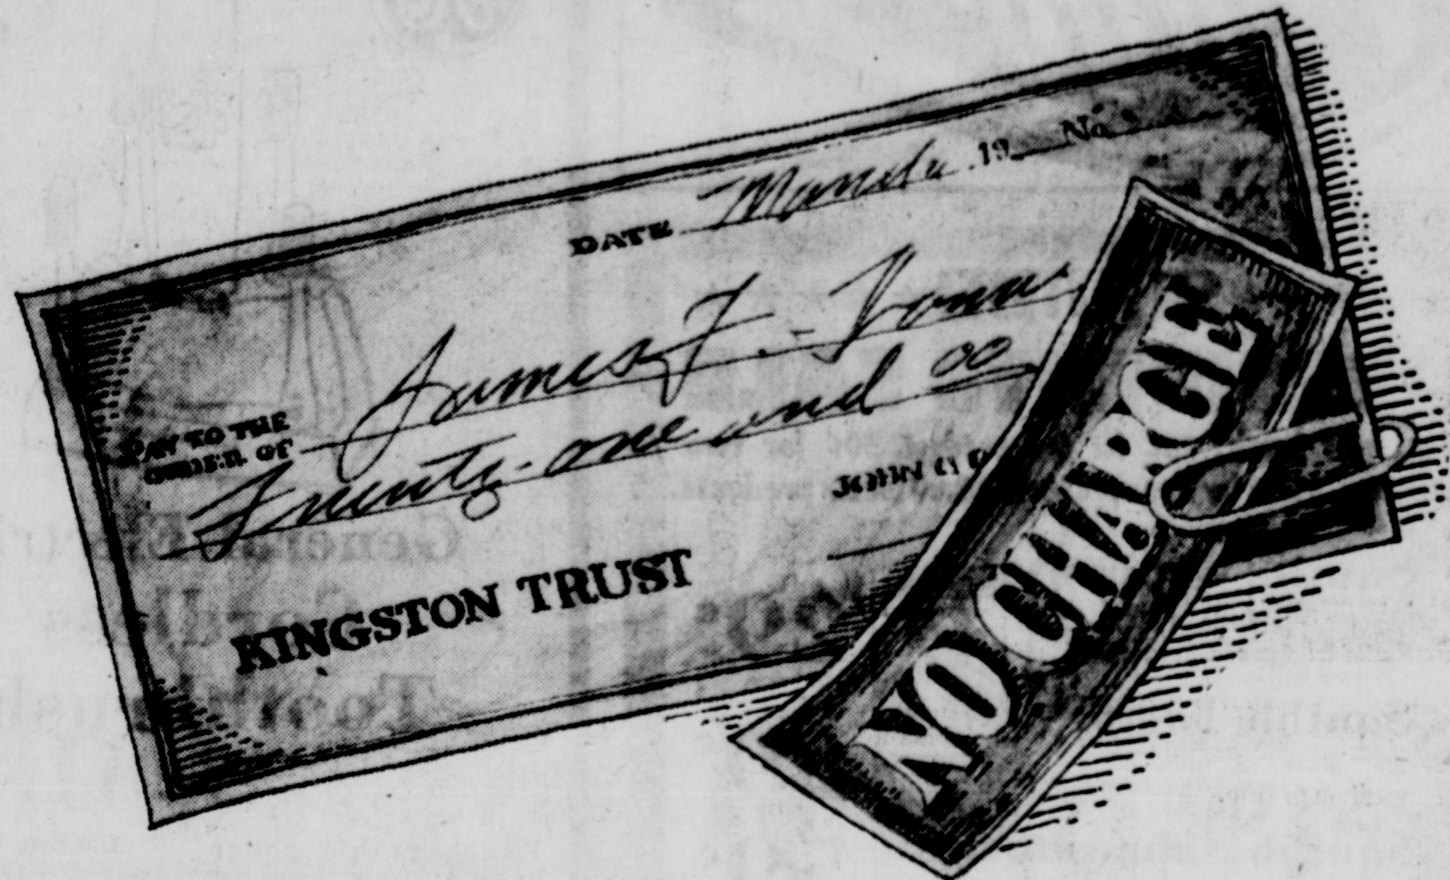

Fiction Course Scheduled

KINGSTON A series on modern fiction, Good Men Are Hard to Find, will be offered by the Jewish Community Center's adult education course, with Lawrence P. Borzumato, assistant professor of English at Ulster County Community College, conducting the course.

Four sessions will be offered from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays with the first set for March 18, from the University of Rhode

Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs is chairman of the planning committee. Class registration is limited, and advance registration is required; those interested may contact the Center office. The course is open to all. A nominal fee is charged.

Borzumato holds a bachelor of arts degree from Emerson College and a master's degree with the first set for March 18, from the University of Rhode Island. He conducted a successful course for the JCC last year on Jewish literature.

2 County Nursery Schools for Retarded

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KINGSTON — "It only takes an outstretched hand" to assist the Ulster County Chapter of the New York State Association for Retarded Children.

The Ulster County Chapter runs two nursery schools which serve mentally retarded children from age two years and up. The two schools are located in Kingston and Ellenville.

Old School No. 4 on Delaware Avenue houses the nursery school in Kingston run by the local chapter. The children begin attending this school at age two. It is necessary to start them this young because it takes the children a longer time to learn and they are able to learn more at an early age.

The children are taught how to feed themselves, the fundamentals of personal hygiene and very basic speech. Coordination of fingers and hands to work is accomplished by teaching the children to paste and work with puzzles. Music activity is encouraged by nursery school is Mrs. Dona teaching the children how to climb stairs and how to slide down a sliding board.

According to Daniel J. Leahy, executive director of the Ulster County Chapter of the New York State Association for Retarded Children, none of the children could talk when they first came to the school. Almost all are talking now and 50 percent of the children are able to put two or three words together. This was accomplished through the services of two speech therapists who teach four days a week.

Music and dancing is taught through the efforts of Mrs. Joseph Connerton and Mrs. Blanche Moak, who work on a volunteer basis.

A special program funded through the State Association also functions at the school. This program is for retarded children who cannot attend a public school for physical reasons, for speech disabilities or a lack of personal training habits.

The head teacher at the nursery school is Mrs. Dona Donaghue of New Paltz. Three other teachers include Mrs. Donna Mazzola, Mrs. Elsie Kent and Mrs. Joy Gallo.

The Emma Wygant School on Flatbush Road is a public four-room school house. Children can attend this school until the age of 21. This school serves trainable children. Its purpose is to "train the child to a useful position," a spokesman said.

Leahy said that the public schools in the area are "good" to the retarded children. They will keep a child until he is 21 although it is not a state law and very few schools function in this manner.

Scouting at Wygant

The Emma Wygant School is one of the few schools in the country which offers a Scouting program for retarded children.

There are four classes at the Wygant School although very often students are interchanged from one class to another depending upon their abilities in the lower three classes for reading, numbers and language.

In the first class the children are given speech therapy twice a week and physical education once a week. An art teacher also comes in once a week. According to Mrs. Mary Kent, who teaches these children, the idea is to teach them basic reading, writing by tracing or copying and work on speech sounds. Many of the children speak better when they are reading than when they are speaking naturally. A great deal of the emphasis is based on verbal development.

The second class, taught by Mrs. Dorothy Henry, is concerned with self-identification. The age group for these children is from about nine to 12 years old.

The third class, dealing with 13 to 17 year-olds, is learning very basic history, numbers, days of the week and are more advanced in reading and identification. Mrs. Dorothy Hughes, head teacher, instructs this group.

The older group, taught by Mrs. Margaret Simmons, learn to become as self-sufficient as possible. They are taught sewing and arts and craft and eight of them go to Gateway Industries every morning. On April 24, the group is going on an educational trip to New York City to see the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty. They also have an annual senior banquet.

Socially, they participate in assemblies and the in Ulster County. Scouting program and some of the children go bowling every Tuesday.

Leahy said that the local chapter hopes to have a Work Activities Program in operation by next September. This would be for the mentally retarded over 21 years of age. The local Ulster County Chapter of the chapters are concerned with the entire life span of the retarded. The Ulster County Association for Retarded Children is directly serving close to 350 children and presently there are only about 320 members in the local association. Consequently, there is a great need for volunteer drivers, people to work individually with the children and an auxiliary.

The nursery schools, Emma Wygant School, and Scouting program are only a few of the programs and facilities in Ulster County now serving the mentally retarded.

It is estimated that 66 children will be born in Ulster State Building and the Statue of Liberty. They also have an annual senior banquet.

Capt. Bruhn Wins Commendation Medal

CAPT. BRUHN RECEIVES HIS MEDAL

Captain Louis G. Bruhn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Bruhn of 286 North Manor Avenue, Kingston, was decorated with the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Otis AFB, Mass.

Captain Bruhn received the medal for meritorious service as a personnel officer at Richards-Gebaur AFB, Mo. He was cited for his outstanding professional skill and superior personal affairs management ability. He is now at Otis with the 4874th Air Base Group.

The captain, a 1960 graduate of Kingston High School, received a B.A. degree from Union College, Schenectady, and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program. His wife, Margaret, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Allen of R.D. 5, Kingston.

In other Air Force News, Osgood F. Jones Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Osgood F. Jones Sr., 3328 N. 46th St., Fort Smith, Ark., has been promoted to sergeant in the U.S. Air Force. Sergeant Jones is a fire protection specialist at Perrin AFB, Tex., with the 4780th Civil Engineering Squadron, a unit of the Aerospace Defense Command which protects the U.S. against hostile aircraft and missiles.

The sergeant is a 1966 graduate of Northside High School. His wife, Jean, is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Hausmann, 330 Springtown Road, New Paltz.

Joseph Kish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kish of Tillson, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Kish is an aircraft mechanic at McGuire AFB, N.J. He is assigned to the 438th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, a unit of the Military Airlift Command which provides global airlift for U.S. military forces.

The airman graduated in 1969 from Kingston High School. His wife is the former Christine Banach.

Staff Sergeant Thomas A. Wadnola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Wadnola of 1119 Elmwood Street Kingston, is on duty at Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Wadnola is an aircraft equipment repairman with the 460th Field Maintenance Squadron, a unit of the Pacific Air Force, headquarters for operations in Southeast Asia, the far East and the Pacific area.

The sergeant, who previously served at McConnell AFB, Kan., is a 1965 graduate of Our Lady of Lourdes High School, Poughkeepsie. He attended Ulster County Community College.

Airman First Class Marc F. Eckert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Eckert, Cedar Street, Rifton, has arrived for duty at Rockville Aircraft Control and Warning Station, Iceland.

Airman Eckert, a radar operator, is assigned to the 932nd Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron. His unit is part of the Aerospace Defense Command which protects the U.S. against hostile aircraft and missiles. He previously served with the 4624th Support Squadron, Hancock Field, N.Y., on duty at Udorn Royal Thai AFB, Thailand. The airman is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School. His wife is the former Dorothy J. Barberich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Barberich of Old Mill Road, Rifton. The airman, who previously served at Cannon AFB, N.M., is a 1968 graduate from Kingston Simone Castiglione of 199 High School.

Lt. Baltz Decorated

First Lt. Robert E. Baltz, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Baltz, Route 1, Kingston, received the Army Commendation Medal while serving with the 52nd Signal Battalion in Vietnam.

Lt. Baltz earned the award for meritorious service as a radio officer with Headquarters, 52nd Signal Battalion.

The lieutenant entered on active duty in July 1968 and was stationed at Ft. Bragg, N. C., before arriving overseas.

He was graduated in 1964 from Kingston High School and received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., where he received his B.S. degree in 1968. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. The lieutenant's wife, Christine, lives in Morrisville, Pa.

In other Army news, Private First Class William E. Van Buren Jr., 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Van Buren, Route 3, Kingston, was assigned as a supply clerk with the 4th Infantry Division in Vietnam, Jan. 24.

Warrant Officer Alan H. Walsh has completed advance helicopter training at Fort Rucker, Ala. and Medical Field Service School at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

After a 30-day leave at home, Warrant Officer, Walsh will report to Vietnam for duty with a medical evacuation unit. Walsh and his wife, Colette, live in Tillson.

Private Ronald E. Swart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Swart of Route 3, Box 430, Saugerties, is now stationed at Fort Polk, La., for training with the Army Reserves.

Specialist Four Steven D. Hizen, 22, whose mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hizen, and wife, Linda, live at 57 Shertown Road, New Paltz, was assigned as an air compressor operator with the 20th Engineer Brigade in Vietnam, Jan. 24.

To Give Report On 5-Day Plan To Quit Smoking

KINGSTON
Dr. George Wootan of Kingston and the Rev. Dan W. Schiffbauer, pastor of the Kingston Seventh Day Adventist Church and director of the Five-Day Plan to Quit Smoking, will be the speakers at a progress report of the smokers who kicked the habit to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the George Washington School Cafeteria.

There will be a motion picture, "Figures Don't Lie," on weight control and diet. Smokers will have an opportunity to compare notes and witness the progress that they have made.

The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting, according to the Rev. Mr. Schiffbauer.

Rondout Valley School Budget Monday Topic

ACCORD
The evaluation committee's review of the 1969-70 budget will be presented at the March 16 meeting of the Rondout Valley School-Community Cabinet. The session will start 8 p.m. at the Accord Elementary School.

All areas of the budget were explored and many of the committee's recommendations to the board of education have been incorporated into the 1970-71 budget.

Chaired by board member Jack Van Newkirk, the committee included the following residents of the Rondout Valley district: John E. Grinnell, John Hall, Douglas Taylor, Allen Teft, Al Sperath, Mrs. Helen Brown, Milton Makowsky, Mrs. Virginia Perwin, Mrs. Barbara Buswell, Wessel Cross, Mrs. Nancy Crisman, Bruce Barton and Arthur Lapp.

Residents of the Rondout Valley area may attend this important meeting. There will be an opportunity for questions from the floor following the presentation.

Hurley Library Activities

HURLEY
The Board of Trustees of the Hurley Library Association met recently to formulate plans for the spring and summer seasons.

Robert Daley, president of the trustees, announced that March would be Amnesty Month at the Hurley Library and that no fines will be collected on any overdue books returned during the month.

The annual card party benefit for the library will be held on Wednesday, April 1, at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Reformed Church. Other fund-raising functions to sustain the library will include a book sale on Stone House Day, a rummage sale, and a concerted membership drive which will be launched in September.

Mrs. Kenneth Ticknor, circulation chairman, announced that in 1969 a total of 7,760 books were borrowed from the library. In order to handle the increased circulation and the large number of volumes added to the permanent collection of the library, it will be necessary to purchase and install additional shelving.

It was announced that Steve Harkin, a local Boy Scout, has made a new sign for the outside of the Library-Town Hall building listing library hours. This project was part of a community service project to fulfill his requirements for the rank of Eagle Scout.

The board of trustees of the library will meet again on March 15. Currently serving as trustees are Robert Daley, Mrs. Seymour Semilof, Mrs. Elmer Rylance, Richard VanDyne, Mrs. Kenneth Ticknor, Mrs. John Loesch, George Jacobson, Schuyler Weidner, Kevin Sullivan, Mrs. Richard Winter, Mrs. Kenneth Burgess, Dr. Harry McNamara, Orlando Ingalls, Mrs. Edgar Meuers, Mrs. Joseph Pfommer is the librarian.

Bids on Span In Wawarsing Open April 9

WAWARSING
Bids for the construction of the Honk Falls Bridge which were at first reported to have been scheduled for opening last Monday, will be opened in Albany, Thursday, April 9, according to State Transportation Commissioner T. W. Patker.

One of 20 bids for highway and bridge projects throughout the state, the Honk Falls bid will be opened at 10:30 a.m. in the hearing room of the administration and engineering building of the State Department of Transportation, State Campus, Albany.

DeMolay Program
A parents night program is being planned by the Order of DeMolay for Saturday, March 21 at the Masonic Temple, Albany Avenue.

The program will start 7:30 p.m. and will center on an Americanism theme. A film will be shown and a detailed explanation of the Order of DeMolay will be given.

Junk Law Violations Discussed in Olive

OLIVE, old age exemption for persons 65 years of age or older, with an accumulated income of $3,000 or less.

Plans for the extension of the Town Hall were presented and motion was made and passed to advertise for construction bids.

Supervisor Carle complimented the Justices of the Peace for their expediency and efficiency in handling cases brought before the court. An invitation was extended to all civic minded residents to attend and observe procedures. Justice Lynch holds court Tuesdays from 3 to 5 p.m. and Justice Barringer on Fridays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Carl Olsen of the Election District Committee reported that a tentative plan to create two new districts has been discussed and the committee considers it beneficial to the voters of the Town.

Supervisor Carle announced that Laydenheim & Sons Inc. of Margaretville were awarded the Police Car contract and Anderson Chevrolet Sales of Accord was awarded the Pick-Up Truck contract.

There will be a public hearing at the Olivebridge Firehall on March 24 relative to the proposed "Public Assembly Law."

The next Town Board meeting will be held April 7 at Memorial Hall in Ashokan.

Tree Species Still Available

NEW PALTZ is a good idea, consider the common alternative. Left to itself, abandoned farm land will revert to a brushy condition generally filling with hardhack, huckleberries, or other undesirable growth. In many cases, the hardhack and huckleberries become so thickly established that natural regeneration of tree species cannot be started. This situation can be avoided by planting suitable tree seedlings this year, on at least one acre of open plantable land.

Trees still available include red and white pine, Norway and white spruce, larch, black locust, and Douglas fir.

Orders are being accepted until the end of April. If you are not sure that tree planting

By having a good forest cover on the ground, wildlife, aesthetic, and property values are enhanced as are the chances for a future forest product.

To aid owners of land in Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and Ulster Counties in selecting trees suitable to the area, Conservation Department Foresters are available for consultation free of charge. For information and tree order forms, contact H. V. Decker, District Director, N.Y.S. Conservation Department, 21 South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, N. Y. 12561.

ST. MARY'S BREAKFAST — Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig was guest speaker at the annual Communion breakfast Sunday morning of St. Mary's Benevolent Association held at Gene Perry's Restaurant, Delaware Avenue and North Street. Dem DA Hopeful Charges 'Incompetence'

ELLENVILLE Alex J. Nirenberg, the Ulster County Democratic Executive Committee's choice for the nomination for district attorney, has charged the present DA's office with "incompetence" saying "organized crime is making a fortune destroying our children."

Nirenberg, who has made a study of and proposed solutions to the narcotics problem in Ulster County spoke before the Ellenville Village Board recently urging that the "law enforcement-youth gap" be closed immediately. Making concrete proposals, Nirenberg suggested: —That Ellenville and every other community immediately start an official youth police auxiliary for the 16 to 21 age group. They would work together with and as part of the police department. "It is needless to estimate the value such a program would have," he said "It is limitless. It is even possible that it in itself could ring the death knell to the narcotics problem."

"We contact our state and national representatives and tell them to stop trying to 'buy off' our youth by promising (before every election) the lowering of the voting age to 18."

"Let us seek an immediate change in New York State law which will change the age of majority to 18."

"Until this can be implemented, local governments should hold 'youth' elections whereby the 18 to 21 year olds can 'elect' their peers to village, town, county and city governments as advisors."

"Our school systems come next — our younger children must be trained to avoid rather than experiment with narcotics."

"By this I mean the kids know who the pushers are but will not report them. THIS IS A FACT. This can only be caused by their lack of respect for us and the law. I believe that the moment we start to earn back their respect, they themselves will turn the pushers out."

With regard to the addict, Nirenberg suggests:

"We must support the projects that are proven successful like Renaissance and Daytop. We must tell the governor not to hand out $200 million to the politicians to build buildings and buy votes."

"We must intensify our study of the assets and liabilities of methadone treatment. We must study the good and the bad of the clinic systems being used abroad."

With regard to the pusher: "We must have stronger and more intelligent punishment. I am not including the addict-pusher because he is out of control of his own facilities."

"The district attorney's office is too soft on pushers and seems to have ignored organized crime in most counties, especially in our own."

Concerted Ulster Program To Eliminate the Junkers

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

TOWN OF ULSTER
A concerted program to eliminate junk cars from the Town of Ulster started this week in a program, co-

Consolidated Metals will remove the junk cars by trailer to its Newburgh plant where the crushing process will be accomplished. Supervisor Sabino said about an extensive program of effort in the next cleanup phase. He said that during April the Highway department will pickup refuse, junk and debris which is placed at the curb on certain days to be announced. This service does not include junk cars.

Kirk said the success of this program and those to follow will depend entirely on the cooperation of town business men and property owners. The COVEB group in addition to Supervisor Sabino and the co-chairmen includes Michael Altamari, Robert Battaglia, David Brink, Mrs. Raymond Coles, Superintendent of Highways Elliott, Mrs. Bertha Gally, Louis Gruberg, Norman Luedtke, Herbert P. Mayer, Orvil Norman, Jack Phillips, Bernard Singer, Robert Strini, Robert Sudlow, Murray Turka, Thomas J. Wickman, Lourens Mans and Francis Mulvaney.

Town of Ulster Junk Car Disposal Area

sponsored by the town government and Ulster Businessmen's Association.

The program is an initial effort of the businessmen's Committee on Visual Environment Beautification (COVERB) in cooperation with Town Supervisor Carmine Sabino, who is also a member of the group.

George Kirk, president of the businessmen's group, who announced the start of the program, said a conference with the supervisor has resulted in arrangements with Consolidated Metals of Newburgh to operate a junk car disposal center at Ruby.

The disposal center will be available to all property owners who have abandoned cars on their property. Property owners must make arrangements to have the junk vehicles moved to the disposal center. Supervisor Sabino and the association urged that the cleanup phase of the program be completed within the next 60 days.

Supervisor Sabino said that those who require further information on removal of the vehicles should call him at the town office in Lake Katrine Grange Hall. The supervisor has a list of those engaged in the business of removing vehicles.

It was emphasized that disposal of vehicles by a car crushing machine and the ensuing air pollution by burning of upholstery will not be in operation at the Ruby site.

Under the arrangement

200 junk cars are already at the Ruby disposal center ready for transporting. He emphasized there are many more junk cars along town roads and in empty lots.

Arrangements should be made as quickly as possible to have these abandoned cars picked up and removed to the disposal center for removal by Consolidated Metals, Sabino said.

Louis A. DiDonna, who is committee co-chairman with Mrs. Bette Maxon said letters are being forwarded to Ulster businessmen urging them to comply with the cleanup program. Many of the businessmen have abandoned junk cars in their parking lots. DiDonna advised businessmen that their best advertisement is keeping their business locations attractive to encourage customer activity.

Kirk this week commended Sabino and the Town Board on the quick action in bringing about a solution to the long-standing junk car problem. He noted that the town has an ordinance which makes it a violation to maintain unlicensed and junk cars on private property. The COVEB program gives each property owner the opportunity to eliminate the violation from their property before legal action becomes necessary.

Dr. Theodore S. Jackaway of Lenox Place, Kingston, will be installed as a Fellow of The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists at its annual meeting April 12-18 in New York City.

The college, which was founded to promote the health and medical care of women, accepts physicians who specialize completely in obstetrics and gynecology, who have demonstrated clinical ability by successful completion of an examination, and who have been judged by their colleagues as competent and ethical physicians.

How To Get Into Great Shape the Worsted-Text Way

Yes, we know you've always had one. It's just that you've been hiding it under suits that bypass it in a deadly dull straight line. Now there are Worsted-Text shaped suits that rediscover your waist and in the process bring some nice attention to your chest and shoulders. Shape isn't only great fashion, it may replace dieting. Done right by Worsted-Text, you also get wider lapels and higher vents at the side or back. And, of course, their hand tailoring and rigid quality control. Rediscover yourself in a Worsted-Text shaped suit for only $75 to $140.

CAPITAL FUND CHAIRMEN — Melvin Mones (L) county legislator, and Willard A. Burke, retired Kingston High School athletic director, inspect nursery equipment at the Children's Rehabilitation Center on Webster Street in Kingston. They have accepted co-chairmanship of the drive to raise $150,000 in Ulster and Greene Counties to complete payment for the building. (Wagenfahr photo).

Study Groups Named For Rochester Town

ACCORD Bids for the yearly fuel oil contract will be advertised and opened at next month's regular meeting April 2.

Town Constable Arthur Lapp advised the board that dogs are still harassing deer. Residents were urged to keep dogs confined. Dogs seen chasing deer will be shot.

Miss Debra Denkensohn of the Rondout Valley High School Student Council attended the meeting to observe the town board in action as part of an environmental study. She is chairman of the committee planning Earth Day in April.

Supervisor Franklin S. Kelder presided at the meeting which was adjourned in memory of Friend B. Wilklow, a former town official.

Accredit Mayone For Post With Marine League

KINGSTON John Ray Mayone has been appointed an accredited service officer of the Marine Corps League effective as of Feb. 26.

As a service officer, Mayone is eligible to handle claims for Marine veterans and their dependents with the Veterans Administration and other government units. He also will assist marines and their families in all type of problems that might arise.

The accreditation empowers Mayone to file appeals and similar proceedings with the VA and act under a power of attorney in the marines interests and proceedings. Mayone will perform his service functions throughout Ulster County, and he suggests that any former marine or family may contact him at his home, 75 Cedar Street.

Mayone brings to this office many years of active service work in the veterans' field, including three years of full-time duty as a veterans adviser with the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency. In addition he has been service officer for veterans organizations including Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League and Joyce-Shirick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The new post is a part-time position and Mayone will continue his regular duties as a court reporter for Ulster County Family Court.

Jenkins Award To Be Given by Bennett P-TA

BOICEVILLE The Jenkins Memorial Award will be presented to an outstanding member of the community at the March 19 meeting of the Bennett P-TA. The award will be made by last year's winner, Thomas Fickus, to the person chosen by the Jenkins Award Committee as having done outstanding work on behalf of youth in the area.

The book fair will also be held that evening to give parents and other interested adults the opportunity to purchase books. Projects and displays in science, math, English and social studies will also be on display that evening at the Project Fair in the All-Purpose room.

A committee, chaired by Valerie Warden, has been appointed to produce a fashion show at the Bennett School April 16. Fashions and wigs will be shown by local models through the cooperation of the Off-Beat Boutique and Richard I of Kingston.

$150,000 Goal Set

Children's Rehab Center Drive

KINGSTON Willard A. Burke, former athletic director for Kingston Consolidated Schools, and Melvin Mones, member of the Ulster County Legislature, have been named co-chairmen of the $150,000 capital fund drive for the Children's Rehabilitation Center.

The announcement was made today by J. Douglas Masterson of Hurley, chairman of the campaign steering committee. The drive will be conducted in Ulster and Greene Counties now through May 31 to complete payment for the Center's new building, Webster Street, Kingston. The center, formerly known as the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center, provides physical, speech and hearing therapy for handicapped children of the two-county area, regardless of the cause of the handicap.

Mones, who is manager of Drug City, has been a County Legislator from the City of Kingston since 1967, and is also chairman of the City of Kingston Republican Committee, and member of the Ulster County Republican Executive Committee.

Burke, who retired as director of Physical Education and Athletics of Kingston Consolidated Schools in June, 1968, is widely known throughout the Hudson Valley as an outstanding football coach and physical director at Highland (1934 to 1946) and Kingston (1946 to 1968). He has held presidencies of the Section IX Athletic Council, Hudson Valley Football Officials Association, Catskill Mountain Zone of NYSHPR Association, and membership in the National Football Coaches Association.

William J. Hurley, present athletic director of Kingston Schools, will assist Burke as advisor-associate in the campaign organization.

In the Saugerties area, the campaign will start March 15 under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Steele of 119 Main Street, that village. A door-to-door canvass will be conducted and an appeal is being made for volunteers to make calls. Those in the Saugerties area wishing to donate to the one-time capital fund drive may make checks payable to The Children's Rehabilitation Center and send it to the chairmen at the above address.

Commencement Exercises Are Held

"As you turn in a new era of your life and change your blue striped uniform to white, the symbol of peace and serenity, you will reach closer to your final goal, service to mankind for better health." Dr. Jalal Mahdavian told members of the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing graduating class at commencement exercises Saturday.

"As of today you are proudly sharing with us, the physicians, the deep satisfaction of devoting the best years of life to provide health and comfort to your fellow man. Once a philosopher said that there are two precious invisible gifts of God to people: health and security. As a provider of health service to your fellow men, may I wish you sincerely, the best of health, the best of luck, and happiness always," Dr. Mahdavian said.

The ceremonies were held in the Kingston High School auditorium for the School of Nursing's 73rd — and last — graduating class. The school was established in 1874 and has trained 649 nurses but has been discontinued in line with the trend placing preparation for nursing within the regular academic environment.

In this area, the task of training young men as registered professional nurses has been taken over by the Ulster County Community College, with the Kingston Hospital — cooperating by providing facilities and advisory personnel for the course.

Wilbur R. Peters, president of the Board of Trustees of the Kingston Hospital presented the diplomas and Miss Rosemary Pellegrino, R. N., Director of Nursing presented school pins to the following graduates: Patricia Miller, Diane Vavrek, both of Buchanan; Margaret Berardi, Kingston; Catherine Considine, Queens Village; Cathy Elliot, Woodstock; Jeanette Hofbauer, Bloomington; Jane Knott, Glenmont; Deborah Markle Nagele, Ulster Park; Virginia McCreery, Monticello; Joan Sanford, Margaretville; Brenda Vedder Dias, Malden-on-Hudson; Rita Woodward, Mineola; and Rita Nilsen, Brooklyn.

Miss Pellegrino, who has served as director of the school for the past 14 years, spoke to the graduates about challenges ahead and stressed the need for continuing education. "Don't be lulled into a 'status-quo' position," she said.

John R. Roberts, M.D., was honored for his work as school physician for 10 years with the presentation of a stereo tape recorder. The Class of 1970 also presented the hospital with an engraved plaque commemorating the school's last graduation.

Awards were presented by Anthony R. Triulzi, hospital administrator. Recipients were:

Miss Knott — Board of Trustees award for highest degree of efficiency in all respects at all times during entire course; also the Dr. Harold L. Rakov prize for highest average in theoretical class work during her entire course: the Dr. Joseph Jacobson prize for highest rating in class work and efficiency of surgical nursing and operating room technique; the Dr. Hamilton Boyd prize for excellence in management of labor and delivery room patients; the award given by Ladies Auxiliary 130, United Commercial Travelers for excellence in the theory and practice in the care of children; and the John B. Krom award given in his memory by his daughter, Mrs. Barbara Mathews for highest rating in obstetrical nursing theory and efficiency in the obstetrical department.

Miss Berardi — Board of Trustees prize for the second highest degree of efficiency in all respects at all times during the entire course; the Safford and Scudder, Inc., award of a diamond for the school pin to the student who has demonstrated "a fine sense of values, and appreciation of the dignity of human life, and who has recognized her responsibilities as a citizen and professional person;" award by Dr. Elbert MacFadden in memory of Carolyn Gale MacFadden Smith, to student showing "genuine warmth as well as interest and aptitude, regardless of academic achievement, in the care and management of the newborn;" and the prize given by Mrs. Logan in memory of her husband, Dewey Logan, to student evidencing enthusiasm for and potential in the area of intensive care nursing.

Miss Vavrek — Prize offered by Miss Wilma Jones in memory of her mother, Mrs. Rose Jones, for excellence in bedside nursing care and consistent demonstration of sympathy for young and old alike; and the award in memory of John Case, given by his daughter, Miss Karen Casey, to the nurse who had demonstrated an understanding and consideration for the chronically ill patient and his family.

Mrs. Nagele — $50 U.S. Treasury Bond and gold cap charm given by Kingston Hospital Alumnae Association to the graduating student who, in the opinion of the head nurses, best exemplifies a good bedside nurse; and the D. Glenn VanGaasbeek prize to the nurse showing the most interest, efficiency and professional growth in the post-anesthesia care of patients and special surgical nursing experiences.

Mrs. Dias — The Dr. A. A. Stern prize for the highest degree of efficiency in her work at the time of graduation.

Miss Nilsen — The Dr. Joseph Jacobson award for highest rating in class work and efficiency of surgical nursing and operating room technique. (There were two recipients of this award.)

Miss Considine — Award given by Capt. Andrew S. Hickey in memory of his mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey, to the nurse who displayed the greatest kindness and consideration for the aged.

Miss Hofbauer — The District 11 NYSNA award of membership in recognition of leadership ability and participation in student nurse organization.

Invocation was by the Rev. Richard Darling, Jr., of St. John's Methodist Church, Malden-on-Hudson, and the benediction by the Rev. John Farley of St. Mary's R.C. Church, Kingston. Vocal solos were offered by Beth Riele, Processional and recessional was played by Mrs. Raymond Rignall, organist. A reception for the students and parents was held following the exercises at the nurses residence.

Purim Ball Set March 21; Queen Esther Competition

The holiday of Purim will be celebrated by the adult Jewish community at the Second Annual Purim Ball to be sponsored by the Jewish Community Council on Saturday evening March 21. This year's festivities will be held in the social hall of Temple Emanuel and will begin at 9:30 p.m. Dancing to Johnny Knapp and his orchestra until 1:30.

The Festival mood will be augmented by the selection of a Queen Esther, a Haman, and a Mordecai from those who will attend garbed in the traditional costumes of the Purim theme. Other prizes will be awarded for costumes in several different categories. Those who do not wish to participate in the costume masquerade, are encouraged to join the fun of "people watching." Mr. and Mrs. Sam Berger will be master and mistress of Ceremonies. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Joseph Horowitz, ticket chairman, has announced that tickets are now being printed and will be available at the March 11 meetings of the Sisterhoods of Temple Emanuel, Congregation Ahavath Israel.

and Congregation Agudas Achim. Mrs. William Helmrich is serving as chairman of the Purim Ball. She is assisted by Mrs. Robert Selinger, co-chairman.

Listed in 'Who's Who'

SR. MARY CHARLES OSB

Sister Mary Charles, OSB, administrator of Benedictine Hospital, has been named for listing in "Who's Who of American Women," according to word received from the publisher, Kenneth N. Anglemire this week.

A biography of her life including her career will be included in the seventh edition, under preparation by editors of "Who's Who in America" responsible for selecting candidates for inclusion in the volume, based on 70 years' experience in publishing biographical dictionaries in worldwide reference service.

Sister Mary Charles holds a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Catholic University and a master of arts degree in administration from the School of Nursing from Columbia University. She has been at Benedictine Hospital since 1941, first teaching nursing arts and then appointed as associate director of the School of Nursing.

In May of 1962, Sister Mary Charles was named by the Rev. Mother Cornelia OSB, president of the board, to the post of co-administrator in the areas of nursing, volunteers and education.

Superior of the Benedictine Sisters at the hospital, she was also named consultant to the hospital at that time. She was elevated to the post of administrator in 1967.

During her years at Benedictine she has been active in the American Red Cross, Mid Hudson Heart Association and played an active role in the successful fund raising campaign for the hospital's new building and expansion program. She is a member of the Ulster County Women's Club.

Benefit Tea
March 18th

Plans for a tea to benefit the Combined Campaign Fund of the National Women's League of the United Synagogue were announced today by Mrs. Sidney Samuels, Combined Campaign Chairman of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel. The benefit will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Jacobs, East Drive, Elmdorf Heights at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, March 18.

The program for the afternoon will feature the new color documentary film "For Us and Those Who Follow," which tells the story of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America for which the funds are being sought. The film depicts the work of the Seminary through a series of actual location scenes and interviews that deal with the troubled questions of many of today's Jewish youth.

The answers are given in part by the academic and lay heads of the Jewish Theological Seminary: Rabbi Louis Finkelstein, the chancellor; Rabbi Bernard Mandelbaum, the president, and former U.N. Ambassador and Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, chairman of the board of overseers of the Seminary. Other answers are offered by an examination of the Seminary's manifold activities and programs: its academic work with students rabbis, cantors, and religious school teachers; its annual role as a host to college youth spending the summer in Jewish studies; the dialogue, seminar, and publishing programs of the Herbert H. Lehman Institute of Talmudic Ethics, the Melton Institute of Educational Research, and the Institute of Religious and Social Studies.

The film also depicts the scholarly, cultural, spiritual, and communal work of the Seminary's famed Jewish Museum of New York; its library, which has been termed "the greatest Jewish library in the world"; the United Synagogue of America, which is the congregational arm of the Conservative movement in Judaism; the Rabbinical Assembly, which is the international association of Conservative rabbis; the Ramah Camps, a network of eight youth camps in the United States and an adjunct program in Israel; the National Women's League, the Organization of Synagogue Women, and the National Federation of Men's Clubs.

All members of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel and members of the public who wish to give a donation to the fund or have already made a donation of $6.11 since last June are invited to the tea. Serving with Mrs. Samuels on the committee are the Meses: Harry Z. Schectman, Henry Jacobs, Ephraim Propp, Irving Reuben, and Seymour Semilof. Reservations are requested by March 13 and may be made by calling Mrs. Samuels or Mrs. Reuben.

Supper Saturday

Rhinebeck Grange No. 896 will sponsor a corned beef and cabbage supper Saturday at the Grange hall from 5 to 7 p.m.

The public is invited.

Meeting Held

A regular meeting of Red Hook Jaycees was held February 24 at the home of Mrs. Hans Perner. The principal speaker was John D. Flemings, director of clinical services at Overbrook Center for Children in Red Hook, who discussed the operation of Overbrook and other state child-care institutions.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Overbrook where members and children will collaborate on an Easter egg tree.

Mrs. Joan Lawrence, district Jaycees president, spoke on the function of Jaycees in the community.

A motion was passed to send a letter to Congressman Hamilton Fish, commending and encouraging the children's program, "Sesame Street."

Luncheon, Style Show

John A. Coleman Parents Association will sponsor a St. Patrick's Day luncheon and fashion preview on Tuesday, Mar. 17.

Luncheon will be served from 12:30 to 3 p.m. Fashions will be presented by Britts Department Store and clothing for all ages will be shown.

Chairmen are Mrs. Warren Lawrence and Mrs. Paul Mills. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. George Stult or Mrs. Matthew Weishaupt, Kingston. The public is invited.

Membership Meeting

A membership meeting of Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary will take place Monday, Apr. 13 at 7 p.m.

Also scheduled for next month is the Fourth Annual Awards dinner to honor hospital volunteers for work contributed during the past year. Pins will be awarded to Auxiliaries according to the number of hours of service. This dinner, considered to be the highlight of the Auxiliary year, will be attended by members of the Hospital Board, the Hospital Administrator, the Auxiliary Board and the majority of volunteers of Ellenville Auxiliary. The buffet supper will be prepared and served by hospitality committee.

AAUW Chooses Subjects

At the February 24 meeting of the New Paltz Branch of the American Association of University Women, the members voted to decide which issues were most significant for the AAUW study/action program during the next two years. The emerging issues were presented in four major fields: Education, Community Affairs, Cultural Interests, and World Problems.

The two topics presented by the Area Representative for Education, Mrs. Robert A. Green, were the following: Recognition of the Educational Needs of Minority Groups; The Role of Business in Education. The membership decided that an investigation of the educational needs of minority groups was the most important issue.

The topics presented for consideration by Community Affairs Representative, Mrs. Raymond Snider, were the following: The need for a uniform tax base within the state to help finance local public education; Community concern over crime and violence; Exploitation of natural resources. Branch members in New Paltz voted for the first topic, the need for a uniform tax base to help finance local public education.

The two questions presented by Cultural Interests Area Representative, Miss Diane Morris were: How can we foster a cultural awareness in children? Is there a decline of interest in the Fine Arts? If so, can it be revived? AAUW members chose the first topic as the one which they would most like to develop and study.

In the area of World Problems, Mrs. Gus Felahi presented the following two topics for a vote by the local membership: Man on the Moon — The impact of the United States' accomplishment on the rest of the world in the areas of science, economics, military; The responsibility of world power — Is the United States obligated to protect weaker nations from aggression. The members voted unanimously to study the responsibility of world power.

The topics which have been selected by the New Paltz Branch will be sent on through the proper channels to the state, regional and finally the national AAUW Board of Directors, and evaluated along with choices sent by over 1,850 other branches of the Association. In this way, local branch members can actively participate in helping to decide what topics will be part of the national AAUW study action program during the next two years.

Also at the February meeting, the members were treated to many different salads, main dishes, and desserts at a buffet which had been prepared by various members to enhance the theme of "Food With A Foreign Flavor." The entertainment for the evening was a short program of contemporary dance presented by Brenda Baum and six children. Mrs. Baum studied at the Catherine Dunham School under Matt Mattox and Jose Limon, and for the past seven years has performed in "Contemporary Mix" which involves the medias of song, dance, projection, slides, and poetry. The children participating were Lisa and Chris Moriello, Jody Bivona, Catherine Snider, Suzie Weinman, and Barbara Benenati.

Fashion Show Will Aid Youth Center

What better time for a fashion show than spring — and what worthier cause for such a show to benefit than the Woodstock Youth Center? With spring in the air, spring fashions are in the top of the news, and the biggest spring fashion show in Woodstock history will parade to the fore on Wednesday, March 18 at 8 p.m. in the upstairs environs of Deane's restaurant.

The fashion show is being organized by Jane McCallum of Houst's Department Store, Woodstock, as a benefit performance for the Woodstock Youth Center, currently housed in the art colony Town Hall. Designs by Bill Sisler will be highlighted, along with spring clothes from Houst's, The Little Shop, Pant, Hapiglop, The Britain Leather Shop, Ann Leonard Boutique, and The Country Peddlers.

Going the gamut from the latest in scooter skirts to the new long maxi-gowns, the show will also place more than the usual emphasis on leather, since two of the town's most unique leather shops are showing. An array of attractive models has been lined up by coordinator Jane McCallum to exhibit the dresses, bell pants, leather vests, tunic tops, and other apparel. Among the models will be local college and high school students, and young marrieds.

The admission price to this open-to-the-public event is nominal; includes a look at what spring will bring to the fashion scene, refreshments, and an opportunity to take home an award.

The event should appeal not only to the fashion-minded but to everyone who is interested in seeing the Woodstock Youth Center develop into a well-rounded program for the town's teenagers. The Center is functioning well but, like any organization, needs money for equipment and other operating expenses. A full house at the fashion show on March 18 will serve to get the Youth Center's fund raising campaign off to a flying start.

Circle Eight Dancers

Members of the Greenville Circle Eight Square Dance Club were pleased to see a new banner on display during the regular club dance on Saturday, Feb. 28. The new banner was "captured" from the Tri-Valley Squares of Neversink. For readers unfamiliar with Western Square Dance Club language, when a specified number of dancers from one club visit another club, they can "capture" that club's banner.

There were 28 visitors wearing Circle Eight badges at the Tri-Valley Club Dance on February 22. After an evening of fun, refreshments and dancing to Jerry Schatz's calls, the Circle Eight visitors headed home.

Baby Shower

A surprise baby shower was held Friday, March 6 for Mrs. Vernon Burgher of Hurley at the home of Mrs. Gerald Styles, Cottekill.

Post 150 Gala

Vice commander Robert Ackert has announced plans for the Post 150 American Legion 51st annual gala. This year's activity will be a dance to take place May 9 at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston. Dancing will be from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. to the music of Harry Maisenholder's Orchestra.

General chairman Ackert named the following Legionnaires to his committee: Albert O. Sonnenberg, co-chairman; Ery. DeWitt and John Lancer, ticket co-chairmen; William Hanley and Robert Delaney, program book co-chairmen; Gerard Geuss, awards; Henry Houghtaling and Robert Van Kleeck, entertainment chairmen; Don Misner and Richard Schabot, welcoming committee.

Rondout Eliminates Nanuet 45-43 or 45-44?

By MORT LAFFIN

NEW PALTZ
Pistol Pete Koola, Rondout Valley High School's scoring machine, stepped to the foul line and sank both ends of a one-and-one situation to give the Ganders a 45-43 victory over Nanuet in a Section Nine Class B semifinal last night at the New Palz High School gym. Or, was it 45-44? The question arises because BOSTON'S LARRY SIEGFRIED (20) finds some opposition from Piston Dave Bing (21) as he brings the ball into the Detroit zone during the first half of Detroit-Boston game. Celtics eventually lost and were eliminated from playoffs for first time in 20 years. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Knicks Clinch Tie

After Twenty Years
Celtics Are Kaput

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knicks clinched at least a tie for their first division title in 16 years, and watching sadly in the background for the first time in 20 years were the Boston Celtics.

Twenty years. It has been that long since Boston has missed the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Last season, the Celtics finished fourth, but went on to win their 11th NBA title in 13 seasons. But when Bill Russell retired after the season, the hand-writing was on the wall.

The last place Detroit Pistons, moving within only 1½ games of Boston, dropped the final blow on the once-proud Celtics by edging them 115-112 Tuesday night in Detroit. The loss meant Boston can finish no better than fifth in the eastern division with only the first four teams making the playoffs.

At the same time, the Knicks closed in on the Eastern title by walloping the Seattle SuperSonics 117-99 while second place Milwaukee dropped six games behind by losing to the Atlanta Hawks 140-127.

Atlanta remained one game ahead of Los Angeles in the Western Division race as the Lakers kept pace with a 106-104 squeaker over San Francisco.

In the other NBA game, Chicago, battling Phoenix and Seattle for the remaining two playoff spots in the West, downed San Diego 111-106.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky stopped Miami 126-120 and Dallas beat Denver 124-116.

Detroit blew an 82-62 lead as the Celtics rallied to within 100-98, but an 11-2 spurt clinched the victory for the Pistons as Dave Bing finished with 26 points.

The Knicks overcame a 54-33 halftime deficit by outscoring Seattle 35-20 in the third period as Cazzie Russell hit 14 of his 30 points.

Lou Hudson scored 36 points and Joe Caldwell 30, offsetting a 40-point effort by the Bucks' Lew Alcindor. Atlanta broke a 71-all tie and never trailed again.

Jerry West's 25-foot jumper with two seconds to play gave the Lakers their victory over the Warriors and capped a tremendous second half shooting display by the league's leading scorer. West collected 33 of his 42 points after the intermission.

Joe Ellis kept San Francisco in contention with 24 points and Jerry Lucas contributed 28 rebounds.

Chicago's 34th victory, the most since it obtained a franchise in 1966, pulled the Bulls into a virtual third place tie with the Phoenix. Bob Love's three baskets highlighted a run of eight straight points for a 79-69 lead that put the game away.

Chet Walker finished with 22 points for Chicago while John Block had 33 for San Diego.

the official scorer credited Rondout's Bruce Burr with a foul shot in the first quarter. A foul shot that he didn't make, or at least that's the way it looked as the ball bounced high in the air, off the back rim, and fell to the floor without going through the hoop.

The confusion arose when Burr was fouled as he moved to the basket. One of the Nanuet players, Bob Hines, slammed the ball to the floor and was called for a technical foul. Both teams moved back to mid-court to talk with their coaches as Burr stepped to the line and missed. Koola then stepped up and made the technical.

The Rondout scorer couldn't see what happened and asked the Nanuet representative, who had been designated as the game's official scorer, what happened and he said that both boys made the shot. Five sportswriters in attendance, including yours truly, plus the Nanuet principal, score board keeper and a handful of fans who saw what happened and realized the mistake, questioned the judgment of the official, but he stuck to his guns and the point was awarded to Burr.

Thus, Rondout had a 13-12 lead at the end of the first quarter. Questioned at halftime, Burr said that he didn't make the point, but again the official scorer insisted that he had and his decision was allowed.

The point proved to be a big one as Nanuet moved up the floor in the last 30 seconds with the score tied, 43-43. Naturally, they were looking for the shot. The ball went underneath and Nanuet center, Darryl Brown, went up for a shot, only to have it blocked by Larry Baney. Baney grabbed the ball and pitched out to Wallace, who, in turn, fired it to Koola. Pete started his move to the hoop and was hit before he got it.

them were Arnold Palmer, who Lee Trevino, Ron Cerrudo, Bert Yancey, Dale Douglass and Bruce Devlin. The only top names among the missing were Billy Casper, who is skipping the entire Florida tour, and Jack Nicklaus, who is taking the week off.

Player, whose native country has a national policy of apartheid, mentioned such players as Charlie Sifford, Pete Brown and Lee Elder as possible opponents.

"I want to do this to offer concrete physical evidence to support my statements," said the tough little South African, who earlier had called for sports to be divorced from politics.

Player, whose last previous appearance in the United States was last fall, said his business manager, Mark McCormack of Cleveland, is working on details of such exhibitions.

Player is one of four men to win the Big Four of Professional golf—the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA National Championship. It was during the course of last year's PGA tournament that he became the target of demonstrators who threatened to disrupt the event.

Player shot a 68 in an exhibition Monday, his first appearance in this country this year and played a casual practice round with U.S. Open champion Orville Moody Tuesday on the 6,628-yard par 71 Pensacola Country Club course.

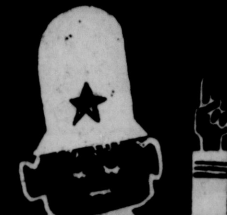

Player said that Moody also had volunteered to play in the benefit exhibition with Negro pros.

Player, who won over $100,000 in only 16 tournaments last year, said he plans to play in about 15 or 16 this year in two or three trips to this country.

Switching Pilots to Milwaukee

Workmen Knew It Before Seattle Brass

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Brewers are about to become the American League's newest entry.

League President Joe Cronin already is in possession of the nine votes necessary to switch the distressed Seattle franchise to Milwaukee and official announcement of the transfer will come in a few days, it has been learned.

Only a few relatively minor wrinkles remain to be ironed out and that largely was the reason a scheduled meeting of American League officials were canceled here Tuesday.

Cronin said there will be another meeting very shortly, probably in Cleveland. That could be the occasion for the formal announcement of what already has been decided privately.

A Milwaukee group, known as Milwaukee Brewers, Inc., and headed by Bud Selig and Judge Robert Cannon, already has agreed to pay $9.5 million for the one-year-old Seattle franchise and put up an additional $1.5 million for working capital.

Coinciding with that agreement, workmen in County Stadium, Milwaukee, are getting the ball park ready for the American League season which opens April 6. Snow was cleared off the seats and the field last Monday and to show how news sometimes travels quicker in the lower echelons, one of the workmen, when asked by a visitor why he and the others were bothering to remove all the snow, replied: "Didn't you hear? The Seattle club is moving in here in a few weeks."

Actually, the decision to welcome Milwaukee back into the major league orbit after a four-year absence was reached last week following a financial report on the Seattle Pilots by Roy Hamey.

The American League had loaned the Pilots $650,000 in February in order to get them through spring training. The loan was made with the intention of helping the club to at least start the season in Seattle.

That idea was abandoned however, after Hamey, the on-leave New York Yankees executive who was designated to oversee the loan, came back to the American League with his report.

He reported the advance ticket sale in Seattle for the coming season was only 20 per cent of what it had been a year ago; the city had done nothing to improve the existing ball park or go ahead with the construction of a promised new one, and that after $400,000 had been paid out to cover debts, the Pilots had only $250,000 left and that wouldn't be enough to see them through spring training at Tempe, Ariz.

The report prompted at least two American Leaguers to change their minds about trying to keep the Pilots in Seattle another season.

Hearing that a switch to Milwaukee was imminent, Sen. Warren Magnuson (D. Wash.) threatened last Monday that he would introduce legislation that would make baseball subject to antitrust laws if the Seattle franchise was moved.

However, the general feeling by American Leaguers was that "nobody, not even a United States senator, can force anybody to stay in a place and lose money."

One of the prime obstacles involved in the transfer of the Seattle franchise to Milwaukee is the already made-out 1970 American League schedule. But Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, has been conferring with Cronin and other American League officials, and has been assured the necessary changes can be made in time.

When the National League Braves moved from Boston to Milwaukee in 1953, the franchise transfer was announced on March 17 that year and the Braves opened in County Stadium, Milwaukee, on Apr. 14. The Braves remained in Milwaukee until 1966 when they moved to Atlanta.

Seattle entered the American League as an expansion club one year ago along with Kansas City when the league operated with two six club divisions for the first time in its history.

With William Daley as their principal owner and Joe Schultz as their field manager, the Pilots finished last in the West Division. They won 64 games, lost 98 and drew a disappointing 667,944 fans.

The Seattle franchise cost Daley and his associates slightly over $7 million. Of that total, $5,250,000 went for players; $600,000 went into the players' pension fund and another $300,000 into the American League treasury.

The Pilots were not able to share in the national television proceeds as one of the conditions of their purchase. They lost approximately $700,000 and $650,000 the year before when they maintained a club in the Pacific Coast League.

Lumping everything together, Daley stands to come out about even in the $9.5 million sale of the Seattle franchise to Milwaukee.

When Tuesday's meeting of American League officials was called off here, Daley hospitalized in Cleveland, Ohio, was given as the official reason. But in Cleveland, Daley denied he was too sick to attend the meeting.

"I am not in the hospital because I am sick, but for a checkup," he said. "I don't know why they called off the meeting. I suspect it has something to do with transferring the franchise to the Milwaukee area."

The Grapefruit Circuit

Senators Cop 4th Straight

(By The Associated Press)

The surprising Washington Senators, who flopped in the spring last year, continued their winning ways Tuesday and received a bigger lift when super-slugger Frank Howard signed for a reported $125,000.

"Now I know how a manager feels when a player makes twice as much as he does," said Ted Williams after the 6-foot-7, 275-pound Howard, who slugged 48 home runs last year, signed his 1970 contract.

"The contract makes Howard the highest paid player in the American League," said Bob Short, Senators' owner.

After the signing, the Senators, who dropped nine straight spring exhibitions last year under first-year manager Williams, went out and with a two-out ninth inning rally, defeated the New York Yankees 6-4.

The victory was No. 4 for the unbeaten Senators, who finished the regular season in fifth place last year under Williams, named the AL's Manager of the Year for the performance, after finishing last the previous year.

With Washington trailing 4-3 and the bases loaded with two outs, Bernie Allen slapped a two-run single off loser Lindy McDaniel. Mike Epstein later came home on a throwing error as the Senators stand alone as the only undefeated team in the majors.

Three-time batting king and defending champion Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, fouled a ball off his right foot in batting practice, but was expected to be sidelined only a day or two after X-rays of the injury proved negative.

The Red Sox then went out and lost to Houston 6-3 as rookie first baseman John Mayberry of the Astros socked a fifth-inning grand slam homer. Don Pavletich had a solo shot for the Sox.

California snapped San Francisco's four-game winning string, holding the Giants to five hits in a 10-0 rout. The Angels belted Giants starter Rich Robertson for seven hits and four runs in four innings. Alex Johnson and Tom Egan had doubles for the winners while Willie Mays had one for the Giants.

Detroit's three-game victory skein was broken by the world champion New York Mets, who rallied for two eighth-inning runs in a 5-4 triumph. Duffy Dyer's two-run double did the damage for the Mets.

Carl Taylor, a .615 belter and Lou Brock, chipping away at a .583 clip this spring, each banged two hits and scored two runs apiece in the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 decision over Los Angeles.

Dave Johnson and Ellie Hendricks slammed homers leading a 13-hit Baltimore attack as the Orioles belted Montreal 9-1. Johnson added a double while Brooks Robinson, Don Buford and Paul Blair each laced two hits apiece for the American League champs.

Randy Bobb crashed a two-run homer in the sixth inning, providing the edge in the Chicago Cubs' 4-3 squeaker over San Diego. Billy Williams had an earlier solo shot for the Cubs.

Rich McKinney slashed a two-run single and Gail Hopkins and Charlie Bradford added run-scoring hits in a six-run sixth inning as the Chicago White Sox tripped Philadelphia 9-3. Larry Hise had a two-run circuit for the Phils while Syd O'Brien rapped a solo shot for Chicago.

Pittsburgh also came up with a six-run inning—the second—highlighted by Roberto Clemente's three-run homer and the Pirates stopped Cincinnati 8-4 despite a grand slammer by the Reds' Darrel Chaney. Gene Alley had a triple and home run for the winners.

Rookie Ron Allen's run-scoring single, his second hit of the game, helped Cleveland to a 3-2 victory over Oakland. Another rookie, Mike Carruthers, knocked in an earlier Indians run.

In the only night game, Atlanta used home runs by Rico Carty and Hank Aaron to nip Minnesota, sending the Twins to their fourth straight defeat.

Three St. Mary's Teams Advance

POUGHKEEPSIE

St. Mary's of Kingston had winners in three divisions—Jayvee, Varsity and Small Fry "A"—in the first round of the Jewish Community Center Invitational basketball tournament here.

The tournament has attracted 28 teams in seven divisions.

Duane Carey scored 28 points to pace the Varsity to a 63-45 win over Holy Trinity. Tom Caruso popped 14 points in the Small Fry's 36-23 decision over St. Mary's of Poughkeepsie.

Mike Kiernan scored 12 and Vance Yonta and Don Timbrouck potted 10 each to lead the Tiro-Jayvee squad to a 70-23 route of St. Mary's, Poughkeepsie, Jayvees.

Among the schools competing, besides the host Jewish Community Center are: Mt. Carmel, St. Martin, Holy Trinity, St. Mary's of Poughkeepsie; and St. Stanislaus.

The score: St. Mary's (K)—Kiernan 12, Yonta 10, Terpening 6, Timbrouck 10, Coughlin 6, McCloskey 2, Brooks 7, Mercier 2, Mahoney 6, Scheffel 3, McGrane 4, Raleigh 2, Wenzel.

Dear Abby

Teen See Older Man?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Altho I am not quite 16, I am very mature for my age. (I have been mistaken for 21 many times.) I am in love with a 25-year-old guy, but I have to see him behind my parents' back because they hate him without even knowing him.

You see, he was married to a no good tramp and had two children with her, and his divorce is not yet final, and his folks don't want me going with a guy who has that kind of background. Abby, you've got to believe me. He is really a wonderful guy. That messed up marriage was HER fault, not his.

Please tell me how I can get my parents to just MEET him and judge him for what he is.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: Assuming the man is blameless, I am wondering what kind of "wonderful" 25-year-old guy, not yet divorced, would knowingly see a "not quite 16 year-old girl" behind her parents' back. I would have to say that he must be something less than wonderful. Listen to your parents.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I became friendly with some new neighbors about our age and we like them a lot. We have children the ages of their children.

The only problem is that they will call us and say, "Why don't you feed your kids early and we'll do the same with ours, and then come on over and have supper with us."

We have four kids and they have three. They always manage to get rid of theirs, but we don't like to get rid of ours. We prefer being invited out as a family. Our children are not monsters, Abby, and we enjoy "family-type parties—kids and all."

Do you think it is right of this couple to want only US and not our kids? When we invite them, we always include their children, but they say "We've had enough of kids all day. Let's make this an ADULT party." What is your opinion?

LIKES KIDS

DEAR LIKES: My opinion is that you had better find friends who share your enthusiasm for "family-type parties—kids and all." Your new neighbors do not. It doesn't necessarily mean that they are "wrong." Or that you are. To each his own.

DEAR ABBY: I wish I had the courage to send the following letter to my "boss." Perhaps if you print it, she'll see it and recognize herself:

"Dear Mrs. —: While you work outside your home I have been caring for your two small children. They are sweet, but rather trying at times, displaying the same jealousies and hostilities found in most siblings.

I am well paid, but this is just a job with me and I cannot give your children the same affection I gave my own children when they were small. I am hired help — not their mother.

Your children resent the fact that you leave them all day. They seem to sense that you are gone from them because you WANT to be, not because you HAVE to be.

It is obvious that your husband has provided you with all the material things your heart desires, but you prefer to "work" because your "job" offers more excitement than your role as a mother.

One day you may become bored with the "business world," and decide to return home and raise your own children. And if you do, I hope it won't be to late."

"SUBSTITUTE MOTHER"

CONFIDENTIAL TO SOLVENT IN SAVANNAH: Money isn't everything. Sometimes it's not even enough.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY MARCH 12, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on ideas, short journeys, special messages connected with relatives. You may receive peace bid from one who recently made declaration of independence. Be a gracious winner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Don't deceive yourself concerning budget. Be realistic in money affairs. One you respect could display streak of extravagance. Maintain balance. Sense of humor also is important today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle high: you can take initiative and expect to be rewarded for efforts. This is no day for make-believe. It is all the way or nothing—very intense. Older person may confess past mistake.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may find that what you thought was beginning is obviously finished. Healthy to face and know the truth. Clandestine meeting appears to be on agenda—exciting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with fulfillment of some basic desires. Be with friends. Express hopes and wishes. New contact could build meaningful relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your hunch could get you important assignment. There is no joking about responsibility. You get prestige, but there also is pressure. One who taught you in past could make reappearance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent on journeys, communications with those at a distance. Key is expansion. See picture as a whole. Refuse to be discouraged by details.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You gain by attending to details. Contract, agreement could result in profit. Look beyond surface indications. Family tie is important, but realize you are your own person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You pay for what you get—but you could receive a bargain. Communicate your needs. State what you want. Co-operate with mate, partner. Public reaction to efforts is good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give attention to dependents, pets. Correct home safety hazards. Be sure of facts. Build bridge of understanding to associates, co-workers. You get surprise compliment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Spotlight on creative endeavors, romance. Give and you also will receive. Be especially considerate toward children. Strive to entertain those who have proved loyal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Emphasis on security, home, relations with older family member, parent. Stick with experience. Co-operate with those in authority. This is no day to flout the rules.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sparkling sense of humor, are sensitive, at times psychic. Current cycle points to meaningful relationship. If single, could lead to marriage.

Squeeze Play Simple to Work

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's seven no-trump call is a slight overbid but, whether or not the bid is seven, South should make all the tricks.

He does so by the simple expedient of just taking them.

He starts with four tricks each in spades and hearts, plus three diamonds and one club. The 13th trick won't be produced unless a squeeze can be developed against East.

Now let's see what happens

if South doesn't know anything about squeezes, but simply starts his play by cashing four spades and four hearts. He should discard two clubs from dummy to leave it with four diamonds and the singleton ace of clubs and one club from his own hand to leave him with queen-eight of clubs and three diamonds.

East will be left with five cards also. If he holds all four diamonds, he will have been squeezed out of protection for his king of clubs; if he throws

a diamond, all North's diamonds will be good. Either way, South takes all the tricks.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

KISSING: (Q) My friends do a lot of kissing. Boys ask me to, but I'm afraid.

What should I do? I don't like kissing too much, but everyone's doing it. I'm 12—going on 13.—To Kiss or Not to Kiss in Upper Darby, Pa.

(A) Don't do anything just because "everyone's doing it. Don't feel obligated to kiss some boy you don't want to kiss. That would be dumb!

There'll come a time when you'll definitely want and like to kiss some boy. That will be the time. Not before.

BOY BAIT: (Q) I have hardly any sex appeal. I try to make myself attractive but it doesn't help. No boy takes a second glance at me. Don't say it takes a long time. I've already been waiting a long time. What I need is tips on how to make boys notice me—Tired of Waiting in Massachusetts.

(A) Once I asked male readers to list the things that make a girl fascinating to them. Here are the 12 most frequent answers:

(1) She has enthusiasm. (2) She has an obvious and sincere interest in others. (3) She listens to a man and encourages him to be himself. (4) She is natural. (5) She smiles. (6) She is in the know about the world around her. (7) She has a pleasant tone of voice. (8) She controls her weight and figure. (9) She maintains good posture. (10) She is immaculately groomed. (11) She knows when not to talk. (12) She wears flattering clothes.

If you can meet and hold to these 12 standards, boys will notice you.

Cousteau -- Stimulating Hour

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Submersibles" were the stars of Jacques Cousteau's ABC hour Tuesday night. The assorted undersea craft were as fascinating as the ocean flora and fauna that usually get Cousteau's top billing.

The first portion of the program was devoted to what is now primitive diving equipment including the first aqua lung that Cousteau developed almost 30 years ago.

Most fascinating was film of the twin minisubmarines on Cousteau's laboratory ship. Each has room for one man, and they move together toward the ocean floor, going through slow maneuvers that look like huge marine beetles in some sort of courtship ritual.

At the end were shots of what bore "off Southern California's Catalina Island, when seven types of submarines submerged en masse.

The hour, a departure from the usual mood of the nature series, was stimulating and education.

In an unfortunate coincidence of scheduling, the first half of the program conflicted with the first television use of a five-year-old Disney cartoon based on A. A. Milne's greedy, lovable little bear, Winnie the Pooh. It was aimed at the youngest members of the audience but had considerable appeal to older viewers for the gentle way it pointed out the horrendous consequences after the little bear made a pig of himself.

Winnie stuffed on honey and swelled up so that he was stuck in the door of a friendly rabbit's house.

ABC's "Movie of the Week" came up with another of its superior made-for-TV films, a science-fiction thriller that would have been even better trimmed one hour from 90 minutes.

"The Love War" was the story of a creature from the planet Argon sent to earth as part of a team to fight invaders from an enemy planet. Both were trying to take over the earth.

Lloyd Bridges played the team leader from the white-hat planet. His assignment was complicated by his meeting a pretty girl, Angie Dickinson, and developing a human attachment for her.

The climax was a shoot-out on the main street of a Western ghost town. Actually too much of the program was given to the skirmishes and shooting, but the real surprise came when the girl turned out to be one of the enemy—and won the earth for the bad guys.

Along the way, the characters tossed in some trenchant comment on warfare as a way of resolving differences.

WORLD ALMANAC

FACTS

Brendan Behan, Irish playwright, poet, raconteur and rebel, lived life wildly and fully from his early youth. The World Almanac says he joined the Irish Republican Army at the tender age of 13. Three years later, in 1939, he was arrested for attempting to blow up a British battleship and sent to a reform school. His three years in confinement there provided much of the material for his play, "The Quare Fellow."

General Upswing in Fighting Across Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops inflicted heavy losses on two companies of South Vietnamese militiamen in fighting reported today from South Vietnam's central coast.

Military sources said the two regional force units, the kind U.S. commanders say will make or break the Vietnamization program, lost 27 men dead, 28 wounded and three men missing Tuesday in battles 235 and 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

A general upswing in fighting across the war zone saw U.S. troops kill at least 112 guerrillas in a series of battles Tuesday near the Cambodian border and outside Hue at a cost of 14 Americans dead and 40 wounded.

U.S. spokesmen said in a delayed report that five Americans were killed Monday when a CH-47 helicopter crashed on takeoff from Quan Loi, 63 miles north of Saigon. Cause of the crash was not known.

The South Vietnamese militiamen pulled out of their positions during the first guerrilla attack on the coast, spokesmen said. The two hours of fighting left 18 militiamen dead, 20 wounded and two missing. Four guerrillas were killed.

The second guerrilla assault 15 miles to the south left nine militiamen dead, eight wounded and one missing, the sources said. Three attackers were killed.

Of the battles involving American troops Tuesday, the costliest saw six troopers of the 101st Airborne Division killed and 14 wounded Tuesday in a North Vietnamese attack on their outpost 373 miles north-northeast of Saigon near Hue. Guerrilla losses were not determined.

U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troops attacked a guerrilla unit Tuesday night after it fired on a patrol near Loc Ninh, 79 miles north of Saigon and a mile from Cambodia. U.S. spokesmen said 26 guerrillas were killed without any American losses.

Four men of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment were killed and 18 wounded Tuesday in fighting 66 miles north of Saigon and five miles from the Cambodian frontier, spokesmen said. The Communist troops left behind 52 bodies, 19 individual weapons and 11 crew-served weapons. In another battle four miles from Cambodia, 32 guerrillas were killed, the command said. The Americans lost four dead and eight wounded.

Spokesmen said U.S. troops found a huge food cache Tuesday 80 miles north-northwest of Saigon and one mile from Cambodia. The stores contained 23.5 tons of rice and 800 pounds of corn.

Allied units have been uncovering vast amounts of food and munitions in the area in the past two weeks. Military sources said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are storing up such reserves for use in possible offensives.

CAPTAIN ERNEST MEDINA
(UPI Telephoto)

Maiming Added to the Medina Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army has charged Capt. Ernest Medina, commander of the unit that swept My Lai, with murder and mutilation of Vietnamese—the first time a maiming accusation has been raised since the alleged massacre.

Four other men also were charged Tuesday with crimes rising out of the My Lai incident March 16, 1968. That brought to 10 the number of men charged so far, and the Army said another five more soldiers and 22 former soldiers remain under suspicion.

The charges against Medina, 33, of Pico Rivera, Calif., and fellow Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc, 35, of Fort Omaha, Neb., said some of their alleged crimes were committed the afternoon of March 16—after the military sweep of the hamlet presumably had ended.

One of Medina's four platoon leaders, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., is to be court-martialed in May for the premeditated murder of 102 civilians at My Lai.

The others charged were: —Sgt. Kenneth L. Hodges, 24, of Dublin, Ga., charged with rape and assault to commit murder; —Pvt. Max D. Hutson, 24, Attica, Ind., charged with rape, murder and assault with intent to commit murder; —Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 21, of Brownsville, Tex., charged with murder and assault with intent to commit murder. Torres was separately charged with murder "about February or March 1968." No explanation of this charge was given.

All five men now are stationed at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga. There they will face the military version of a grand jury inquiry. If that inquiry upholds the charges, they will face courts-martial.

Vote Age on Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called up his proposal to lower the voting age to 18 for a vote today although acknowledging strong opposition both on the floor and from the White House.

Mansfield said he realized many senators had already set their minds against his proposal, which was an amendment to a bill extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act. He said opponents feel it would jeopardize the voting rights bill, should be handled as a separate bill, or believe a constitutional amendment is required.

Despite these handicaps, the Montana Democrat said he thought the Senate needed to face the issue now.

The Nixon administration gave its blessing to the 18-year-old vote proposal by constitutional amendment, but opposed any change by an act of Congress. It came out against Mansfield's approach in a statement Tuesday.

Only four states permit persons under 21 to vote. Georgia and Kentucky have lowered the voting age to 18. Alaska to 19 and Hawaii to 20.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, pushing for a five-year extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act that applies primarily to Southern states, said he opposed injecting the 18-year-old vote issue.

"We should not risk embroiling the extension of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 with the subject of an 18 or 19 year voting age," he said.

Scott, differing with the administration, is supporting a separate bill to lower the voting age. He said he thinks it is possible, constitutionally, for Congress to do this by statute.

Second Violent Blast At Brown Trial Site

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (UPI)—An explosion tore out a corner of the Dorchester County Circuit Court building today. It was the second violent explosion in Maryland in 24 hours and officials said both incidents appeared related to the riot trial of black militant H. Rap Brown.

The blast, which hurled debris from the two-story stone building 100 feet into the street, appeared to have been centered in a women's lounge on the second floor. The explosion tore out a huge chunk at the top corner of the building. There were no injuries.

The explosion happened at after another mysterious blast near Bel Air, Md., demolished a car and killed its two occupants, including a long-time friend of Brown's, Ralph Featherstone.

Cambridge is the town where Brown was charged with arson, incitement to riot and incitement to riot after racial disturbances broke out following a speech he gave there in July, 1967. Bel Air is the town where Brown is being tried.

The building once served as the county courthouse for this eastern shore community. A new building is now the courthouse, but the older one continued to house the circuit court. Brown was arraigned there on the riot charges and he would have been tried in the damaged building had not the trial been shifted to Bel Air, about 100 miles north.

State's Attorney William B. Yates, who is prosecuting Brown but who was in Cambridge because the trial has been recessed, toured the blast site with county officials. He said it appeared the two incidents were related to the Brown trial, but declined to elaborate.

A demolition team from the Edgewood Arsenal was called in to determine what caused the explosion. Yates and County Clerk Phillip Cannon said there are only a few offices on the second floor of the building and it would have been easy for anyone to gain access to the lounge Tuesday and plant a bomb, if that was what caused the blast.

Cannon estimated damage to the structure at $100,000.

Maryland State Police, Dorchester County Sheriff's officers and Cambridge city police were put on extra alert.
